Allies Gain in All-Out Push on Nazi Line in Italy

By EDWARD KENNEDY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, May 12 (AP)—Allied troops, smashing out in the first big spring push against Hitler's European wall, are assaulting the Gustav Line in Italy along a 25-mile front from Cassino to the sea, and have taken some initial objectives in the greatest offensive in Mediterranean warfare.

The mighty drive jumped off at 11 o'clock last night under a record, earth-shaking artillery barrage. Front dispatches said the Germans had been driven from some frontline positions in fierce fighting.

British and Indian forces of the Eighth Army crossed the Rapido and Gari rivers early today, pressing on toward first objectives in the Gustav line, a dispatch from Canadian Press war correspondent Douglas Amaron declared. The Gari is a small stream four to five miles south of Cassino, running between the Rapido and Liri rivers.

The Germans, who long have been controlling the rise and fall of the Rapido river through a reservoir system, apparently opened the gates, sending surging waters down as the Allied attack opened.

It is a full Allied stroke—by American, British, Dominion, Polish, French and Italian troops.

Secretly regrouped, Lieut.-Gen. Clark's Fifth Army struck on the westward flank running in from the Tyrrhenian sea, and the British Eighth Army, transferred from the Adriatic, plunged forward in the bloody Cassino sector, 25 miles inland on the curving battlefront, attempting to drive up the Liri valley.

Fifth Army men fought into the rugged mountains rising from the Garigliano valley, southwest of Cassino, in an effort to clear these heights.

LIEUT.-GEN. ALEXANDER

Latest reports indicated no big offensive action had yet been launched on the Anzio beachhead below Rome, 50 miles west of Cassino.

Hundreds of Allied warplanes blasted at the Germans in mammoth sky support of the ground troops, but a heavy overcast throughout the morning hours stymied much tactical infighting. The Allied skymen, however, sent swarms of strategic bombers over to slash enemy communication and transit facilities.

Allied naval units also supported the attack, turning their big guns on the Germans.

The Nazis were reported fighting desperately, throwing a curtain of mortar, artillery and machine-gun fire, and using flamethrowers on at least one Fifth Army sector.

The thundering Allied artillery barrage was described as the heaviest yet laid down in this theater, surpassing even the great artillery displays that heralded Montgomery's offensives in Africa.

Gen. Alexander, Mediterranean commander-in-chief, is directing the assault.

In a pre-battle statement, Lieut.-

What Italian Drive Means

By WES GALLAGHER

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—Allied troops have kicked off in Italy in the first great spring test of Hitler's European fortress as it was announced the American Fifth and British Eighth Armies had launched a simultaneous offensive.

While it is impossible to say what is in the minds of the Allied high command, it is obvious that a full-scale Italian offensive is bound to affect Hitler's defensive position along the Atlantic west wall.

If it is successful, it is certain to drain off reserves which might be used against the Allies in the west.

If it faills, Hitler will feel free to move troops from Italy to France in an effort to repel the next Allied thrust.

Any operation in Italy on a grand scale, as suggested by the joint Fifth and Eighth Army attack, is certain to have its effect on Hitler's western defenses, just as Gen. Sir Edward L. Montgomery's assault with his Eighth Army on the El Alamein line in October, 1942, tied up the German African defenses while Gen. Eisenhower landed in North Africa in November.

While the western European theater and the Mediterranean are separate, with the Russian eastern front still another unit, it is obvious fighting in any one of the three theaters against the common enemy is bound to have an effect on the other two.

It is difficult to say what the results of the Italian offensive might be, but it is starting with much better chances of success than last winter's abortive attacks.

The weather has cleared, the ground is hardened, and the Allies are able to utilize in full measure their air superiority.

While the Germans have had plenty of time to prepare defensive positions up the Italian boot, they have been withdrawing some of their best units, such as the First Parachute Division, to the west and should have fewer veteran divisions to meet the new thrust.

Reds Repulse Nazi Thrust

MOSCOW, May 12 (AP)—The Russians announced today a strong German assault against the Red army bridgehead northwest of Tiraspol on the western bank of the lower Dnestr river had been repulsed yesterday with heavy losses to the enemy.

A Red army communique asserted the Germans had thrown large infantry and tank forces into the assault, which apparently was aimed at restoring their Dnestr river line. The communique declared "about a regiment of German infantry was wiped out."

(The Germans claimed, however, that their forces had succeeded in wiping out the Russian bridgehead.)

The attack was the first sign of important German initiative since last month, when a Nazi counter-attack against the Stanislawow sector was reported to have failed.

Yanks Hit 'Em 28-Day Air Raid

By GLADWIN HILL

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—American heavy bombers thundered back into the heart of the Reich today, carrying the gigantic pre-invasion assault through its 28th day, following up a heavy hammering of the French invasion coast last night by 700 RAF bombers.

First reports did not name targets of the heavy American daylight blows, but Berlin broadcasts said bombers were over west Germany streaming southwest and fighter formations were over west, southwest and central Germany. Great aerial battles were raging.

American medium bombers got in the day's first assaults with attacks on airfields and other installations in northern France, and channel coast residents were witnessing one of the most impressive displays of aerial might ever seen as an unending cavalcade of bombers and fighters raced back and forth to the continent.

All Folkestone on the English side rocked to some of the heaviest explosions of the war.

Cherbourg and Boulogne received the major share of the RAF's pre-dawn load of 2240 tons of bombs. Other explosives were loosed on rail yards in historic Louvain, Belgium.

5 Nazi Planes Are Shot Down

ALGIERS, May 12 (AP)—British and French fighter pilots knocked down five German planes and damaged others in a force attacking an Allied convoy in the western Mediterranean, coastal air force headquarters said today, without disclosing whether the convoy suffered damage.

Tito Forces Continue Gains

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—Marshal Tito said today his Yugoslav guerrillas had won local successes against the Germans in eastern Bosnia, Montenegro, Hercegovina and Slovenia but had lost the town of Ljubya Sahte in western Bosnia.

D-Day? Rommel Maps Thrust

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—Nazi controlled radios, apparently surprised by the Allied Italian offensive, declared today that the "D-Day" of the Allied invasion had come—and hinted strongly that a counter-invasion of Britain might be Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's defense.

"The gong has already sounded for the curtain to rise—if in fact it has not already risen," Jean Paquis said over the Paris radio as France waited tensely and her conquerors of four years ago braced for blows of the onslaught.

Axis press reports reaching Britain—where the jar of explosions from the French invasion coast last night was felt as far inland as London—said a picked German attack force spearheaded by paratroops would strike at England the moment the Allied invasion began.

These accounts insisted Rommel, who was described in a Berlin dispatch to la Suisse at Geneva as "Hitler's commander-in-chief in western Europe from the tulip fields of the Low Countries to the Mediterranean," could be counted on to defend by attacking.

Most London observers took this with a grain of salt—believing it more likely that the Nazi press was putting out dispatches of feigned confidence rather than risking disclosure of any real German plans for defense of the continent.

Another report said Rommel had demanded appointment of a German gauleiter with extraordinary police powers to take charge of France on the grounds Vichy may be unable to control the French population when the Allies invade.

LIEUT.-COL. HENRY CABOT LODGE, JR.

Lieut.-Col. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., who resigned from the United States Senate in a surprise move Feb. 4 to return to active service in the Army, is a patient at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, the Boston American learned today. The War Department confirmed that the former Senator, after active service on the Italian front was stricken and was returned to the United States "some time ago."

War Department officials said he had incurred an intestinal maladjustment and "an operation may be required."

Less than two months ago, in a letter to a Boston friend from Italy, State Sen. Chester A. Dolan, Jr., of Jamaica Plain, now an Army Air Corps major, described Lieut.-Col. Lodge as "in the thick of things" at that front.

"He is over here with us and in the thick of things," Maj. Dolan wrote to former State Sen. James J. Mulvey. "It sure didn't take him long. He has no regrets and also gives the big fellow in Washington a very good break."

In 1942 the then junior Senator from Massachusets had gone on leave of absence from the Senate to serve with the first American detachment of tanks with the British Eighth Army during the Libyan campaign and was under fire.

When he resigned last February to return to active service, his decision was characterized by Gov. Saltonstall as "an act of extreme patriotism."

Allies Warn 4 Satellites 'Quit'

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—In a virtual ultimatum addressed directly to the peoples of four Axis satellites over the heads of their Nazi-affiliated governments, the United States, Britain and Russia today warned those nations they must decide now whether they intend to go down to utter defeat with Germany.

Transmitted by radio to the populations of Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland, the three-power declaration said there still is time for them to contribute to an inevitable Allied victory. It was expected Allied planes would shower their countries with copies of the docemuent translated into their native tongues—just as are the broadcasts already delivering the message from British, American and Russian broadcasting stations completely ringing the continental fortress.

The three-power declaration stated:

"Through the fateful policy of their leaders, the people of Hungary are suffering the humiliation of German occupation. Romania is still bound to the Nazis in a war now bringing devastation to its own people. The governments of Bulgaria and Finland have placed their countries in the service of Germany and remain in the war at Germany's side.

"The governments of Great Britain, the Soviet Union and the United States think it right that these peoples should realize the following facts:

"1—The Axis satellites, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Finland, despite their realization of the inevitability of a crushing Nazi defeat and their desire to get out of the war, are by their present policies and attitudes contributing materially to the strength of the German war machine.

"2—These nations still have it within their power, by withdrawing from the war and ceasing their collaboration with Germany and by resisting the forces of Nazism by every possible means, to shorten the European struggle, diminish their own ultimate sacrifices and contribute to the Allied victory.

"3—While these nations cannot escape their responsibility for having participated in the war at the side of Nazi Germany, the longer they continue at war in collaboration with Germany the more disastrous will be the consequences to them and the more rigorous will be the terms which will be imposed upon them.

"4—These nations must therefore decide now whether they intend to persist in their present hopeless and calamitous policy of opposing the inevitable Allied victory while there is yet time for them to contribute to that victory."

Papal Villa Bombed By Allies, Nazis Say

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—The German-controlled Paris radio asserted today Allied planes had bombed the Papal villa at Castel Gandolfo near Rome yesterday, injuring many civilian refugees quartered there.

The broadcast was entirely unconfirmed by any Allied source.

SAYS HIS NAME IS "GENE"
Found Asleep on Public Garden Bench

Park Bench Boy's Identity Sought

Bewildered and unable to tell police how he happened to be sleeping on a Public Garden bench, a dark-haired, brown-eyed boy of eight was taken to Chardon st. home today while efforts were made to learn his identity.

Obviously trying to help clear up the mystery, the youngster was able, after tactful questioning by police, to tell that his name was "Gene." He mentioned the third grade and St. Theresa's or St. Mary's, but did not say whether he meant a church or school.

With these clues, police began a check of all churches and schools with those names in Greater Boston.

The boy was found curled up on a bench by a sailor and his girl friend who took him to police headquarters. Questions by police at first brought only a flood of tears from the tired, confused yuongster.

He was wearing a brown striped polo shirt, gray knee-length breeches, long black stockings and low black shoes. He was hatless.

Mother's Day Fete on Common

Gov. Saltonstall, Mayor Tobin and representatives of the armed forces will participate in a special Mother's Day program on Boston Common Sunday when honor will be paid to the mothers of all men and women in service.

A feature of the observance at the Parkman bandstand will be the presentation of a bronze medal and citation to Mrs. Thomas H. Murray of Brockton, selected as the State Mother of Massachusetts for 1944. A distinguished contralto, Mrs. Murray, who has three sons in the service, was chosen for the honor for combining a brilliant career with successful motherhood.

Solon's Wife Chosen 'Catholic Mother'

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Mrs. Augustine Kelley, wife of Rep. A. B. Kelley (D.) of Greensburg, Pa., was chosen "Catholic Mother of 1944" today by the National Catholic Conference on Family Life.

Mrs. Kelley, mother of six sons and three daughters, has five sons in the armed forces.

Japs Pressing Drive in China

By RICHARD C. BERGHOLZ
Associated Press War Editor

Japanese invaders in China held complete control of the north-south railway linking Peiping and Hankow and maintained crushing pressure on Loyang today but in India were rocked by a mighty two-day Allied air blow.

In the central Pacific, Japan's big base at Truk shook under a co-ordinated one-two aerial punch while other defensive positions in the Pacific were ripped by far-flying American airmen.

Chungking acknowledged the Japanese conquest of the Peiping-Hankow railroad and admitted several forces of Chinese troops were trapped east of the railroad, apparently destined to turn to guerilla warfare.

The Tokyo radio claimed 15,500 Chinese troops had been slain since the beginning of the Japanese offensive in northern Honan Province on April 18. In addition, the bulletin said, 4031 Chinese were captured. Total Japanese fatalities were given as 313.

Bitter fighting raged around Loyang, west of the railroad. Japanese columns, infinitely better equipped than the Chinese, are advancing on the city from three directions and are within six miles of Loyang at one point.

Tank-led Japanese who breached China's defenses along the Yellow rive at Shansi Province may have captured Mienchin, railroad town 40 miles west of Loyang, a Chungking spokesman said.

One of the largest Allied air fleets ever concentrated on a single target in the India-Burma fighting poured almost 200 tons of bombs on an enemy fortified area of 1200 square yards southwest of Imphal near the border. One pilot said the target "just went up in chunks."

American fighters destroyed 13 Japanese bombers on sweeps over three enemy airfields.

The air blows at Truk, carried out by planes from the Central and Southwest Pacific, were co-ordinated with air raids on targets all the way from tiny Wake island, 1300 miles northeast of Truk, to the Schouten Islands, northwest of the new Allied air base at Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea.

The softening-up process continued with a new raid on Ponape, Truk's eastern guardian, Oroluk, in the eastern Carolines, and Woleai, in the western Carolines, were also raided.

Gein. MacArthur's squadrons dumped 100 tons of bombs on trapped Japanese troops in the Wewak-Hansa Bay area of New Guinea.

RESCUED FROM JAPS—With a big smile and wearing shoes many sizes too large, August Johnson, an Australian, was rescued from the Japanese by Allied forces in the Hollandia area of Dutch New Guinea where he had been held captive for many months by the Nips.

Deb in Secret Army Bridal

The secret marriage of Army Capt. Edward H. Baker, 3d, 25, son of E. H. Baker, automobile executive and Belmont resident, to Miss Betty McGowan, 23, Dedham and Scituate socialite, was disclosed today.

Friends revealed the couple were wed April 20 at a 4 o'clock ceremony in the rectory of St. Mary's Church, Dedham. The Rev. J. Dennis Lyons officiated.

Capt. Baker flew here from a Panama jungle post for the wedding, arriving the day before the ceremony. He has been in the Army four years.

A graduate of Tabor Academy, he took up a business career in civilian life, joining the T. C. Baker Co., Ford distributors in New England and headed by his uncle of the same name.

Neither the bride nor the bridegroom could give their families more than a few hours' notice in view of Baker's hurried plane flight.

Best man at the wedding was James T. McGowan, USN, the bride's brother. Her sister, Miss Jean K. McGowan, was bridesmaid.

Only members of the families were present. They included Mr. and Mrs. Baker as well as the captain's sister, Mrs. Katherine Curtis of Belmont.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James F. McGowan of Bussey st., Dedham. Her father was a widely known attorney.

Capt. and Mrs. Baker went to Falmouth for their honeymoon. He is preparing to return to duty by plane, his leave being up next week.

'Learn to Drive Young'—Goodwin

Highway accident statistics prove that it pays to teach people how to drive when they are young, in their teens if possible.

So declared Motor Vehicle Registrar Frank A. Goodwin at a conference on high school pre-driver education at the Registry building. Goodwin gave the plan his strong endorsement.

Harold Danford of the center for education, New York University, said the Army had to start a pre-induction program of instruction in driving because it was impossible to find 2,500,000 qualified operators for tanks and trucks among 42,000,000 licensed drivers in 1940.

26,000 Axis Planes Lost

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—About 26,000 German and Italian planes have been shot down in air combat since the beginning of the war by Allied air forces, not counting those destroyed on the Russian front, Sir Archibald Sinclair, secretary of state for air, told Commons today.

Will Reclassify All 30 or Over

In the biggest overhaul of draft deferment policy since selective service went into operation, Massachusetts local draft boards today tackled the task of reclassifying and deferring—perhaps, indefinitely—all men 30 or over who work in industries important for national "health, safety or interest."

At the same time, men 26-29 years of age who are "necessary" employes in essential lines of work will receive occupational deferments of at least six months, to Oct. 1.

Col. Ralph M. Smith, state selective service director, declared that "It looks now as though we never would reach the men 30 or over. The national picture is reported to be that men over 29 will not be called this year and possibly not for the duration."

BOARDS PREPARED

This picture is the same in Massachusetts, Col. Smith said, barring, of course, some great trend of war casualties or unforeseen developments.

Col. Smith said Bay State boards were prepared for the big change in policy, announced in Washington last night by Maj.-Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, when they were recently instructed to postpone inductions of men 30-38 years old at least until July 1.

Gen. Hershey's latest decree gives local boards far more freedom than ever before in granting deferments to the older group of registrants.

The boards have the right, at their own discretion, to add to the list of 35 essential industries any local business which seems vital to a particular community.

In Washington, Gen. Hershey said any local board decision contrary to the new policy should be appealed.

Men actually under orders to report for active duty are "as good as inducted," however, Col. Smith pointed out.

WILL IMPROVE MORALE

The Massachusetts director informed local boards that they may simply ignore their quotas if they cannot meet them without dipping into the over-30 group or the necessary men of 26 through 29.

While the local boards will automatically review all 1-A men in the 26-29 and 30-38 groups, employers were advised to file deferment requests at once for every man they want deferred who is over 30 and who has been in 1-A.

The list of essential industries:

Production of aircraft and parts; ships, boats and parts; ordnance and accessories; ammunition; agricultural products and services and commercial fishing; processing of food; forestry, logging, lumbering and forest industries; construction; coal mining; metal mining; non-metallic mining and processing and quarrying; smelting, refining and rolling of metal, and scrap salvage; production of metal shapes and forgings; finishing of metal products; production of industrial and agricultural equipment; production of machinery.

Also, production of chemicals and allied products; rubber products; leather products; textiles; apparel; production of stone, clay and glass products; production of petroleum, natural gas and petroleum and coal products; production of finished lumber products; production of transportation equipment; transportation services; production of pulp, paper and materials for packing and shipping products; production of communication equipment; communication services; heating, power, water supply and illuminating services; repair services; health and welfare services; educational services; governmental services; technical, scientific and management services.

Stalin Willing to Work With Pope, Priest Reports

CHICAGO, May 12 (AP)—Marshal Joseph Stalin of Russia was quoted today by the Rev. Stanislaus Orlemanski, Springfield, Mass., priest just returned from Russia, as declaring he is "an advocate of the freedom of conscience and that of worship."

The Soviet marshal was quoted as asserting he believed co-operation with Pope Pius XII was possible "in the matter of struggle against coercion and persecution of the Catholic Church."

QUOTES Q AND A

Fr. Orlemanski in a statement given at a news confreence said that in Moscow he had asked Marshal Stalin the following questions and had ben given the following answers:

"Do you think it admissible for the Soviet government to pursue a policy of persecution and coercion with regard to the Catholic Church?"

Marshal Stalin's answer: "As an advocate of the freedom of conscience and that of worship I consider such a policy to be inadmissible and precluded."

"Do you think t hat the co-operation with the Holy Father, Pope Pius XII, in the matter of struggle against coercion and persecution of the Catholic Church is possible?"

Marshal Stalin's answer: "I think it is possible."

INVITED BY STALIN

The two questions and answers constituted the only direct quotations of Marshal Stalin in Fr. Orlemanski's recital of his visit to Moscow which stirred up considerable controversy in political and religious circles.

The Springfield priest, talking to reporters as news reel cameras ground, declined to answer any questions. He presented the statement, also read from a little black notebook but waved all questions aside with "No questions; no questions, please."

He said he had obtained approval of the American State Department to make the trip to study the Polish question and after asking Soviet approval through the Russian consulate in New York had finally received an invitation direct from Marshal Stalin to go to Russia.

Lots of Innocence Day's Lineup Grist

Nobody was guilty of anything in the police headquarters lineup today, as various small fry from the night's grist were run through the mill. To a prisoner of 32, from Lansing st., Roxbury, it was a puzzle how a number of suits moved from the closet of a Tremont st. house to a table—while he was there seeking somebdy to repair an oil stove.

MARY E. SHEEHAN

JEAN MARIE JENSEN

SIMMONS' "MOSTS"—These two seniors were among those winning honors in the annual poll of the senior class at Simmons College. Mary E. Sheehan of Manchester, N. H., was voted "most beautiful," and Jean Marie Jensen of Swampscott the "most Bostonian."

The owner of the premises thought he had it figured out and called police. The prisoner had no comment when his burglary record was read, showing terms in New York and Dedham.

A 17-year-old Somerville boy, arrested for breaking into a Charlestown pharmacy and restaurant, replied impatiently that he hadn't had time to count what money he obtained "because the cops were all around the place."

STRANGER 'N FICTION

With him had been a 15-year-old boy, who was held for juvenile court without being paraded before the detectives.

A pair of coast guards taken from a stolen car which had been in an accident at Massachusetts ave. and Tremont st., South End, protested that they had merely thumbed a ride and the driver had fled.

Questioning of two lads picked up on suspicion of stealing nurses' checks at Massachusetts Memorial Hospital, South End, revealed one had escaped a state hospital in September. He was turned over to state authorities, while his companion, a former hospital employe, denied knowledge of the checks.

Then an ex-pug with a long police record haughtily disclaimed any participation in shaking down bookies and seemed hurt when asked if he hadn't tried to shake down ice cream vendors while he was employed as a rigger at Hingham shipyard.

TOO FAT TO FIGHT

No, he wasn't in the Army, he said. He was 4-F on account of being overweight and having false teeth.

A German automatic pistol brought in a 17-year-old merchant seaman with a good record of service to cross-Atlantic points, and a young civilian pal known to police as a "fresh kid."

The seaman said he had bought the pistol in New York for $5 from another seaman and had asked his friend here to sell it for more than $5, a common practice in business. They had been picked up in Tremont st., South End.

For wearing a sailor's uniform illegally, a night club bus boy was under the lights and explained it was only a lark that he thought of last night while drinking and while a new-found friend, a sailor, was sleeping in the bus boy's South End room. The FBI was notified.

Rep. Short Insists On Pearl Harbor Trial

WASHINGTON, May 12 (AP)—Rep. Short (R.) of Montana indicated today that he will seek impeachment of top ranking Cabinet officers if the men in command of the Army and Navy at Pearl Harbor during the Japanese attack, are not brought to trial before Dec. 7, 1944, for alleged dereliction of duty.

Short has drafted a resolution to extend for another six months beyond June 7, next, the statute of limitations under which Maj.-Gen. Walter C. Short and Rear Admiral Husband E. Kimmel could be brought before courts martial.

"When this story comes out, it will shock the nation," he said.

Mrs. Bergdoll Applies For Citizenship

PHILADELPHIA, May 12 (AP)—Mrs. Berta Bergdoll, German-born wife of Grover C. Bergdoll, World War 1 draft dodger, has applied for citizenship, under a law permitting an alien wife to derive citizenship from a husband.

She and Bergdoll were married in Germany after Bergdoll fled there in 1917. She came here in 1935 to beg amnesty for her husband and has been here under a frequently extended visitor's visa. Bergdoll last February completed a term at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

Governor Proclaims 'I Am An American Day'

Gov. Saltonstall, proclaiming Sunday, May 21, "I Am An American Day," called upon State and local officials, as well as patriotic civic and educational organizations, to join in exercises to emphasize the significance of American citizenship. The proclamation said, in part:

"The third Sunday in May each year since 1940 has been nationally set aside as Citizenship Day for the recognition of all who, by coming of age or naturalization, have attained the status of citizenship. Never was there a greater need than now for stressing the benefits and duties of citizenship in the United States.

"In these distressing and uncertain war times, the value of American citizenship increases many fold and so do its obligations. Massachusetts welcomes those of its residents who have, within the past year, first acquired those privileges and assumed those duties.

"Therefore, I am happy to designate Sunday, May 21, 1944, as "I Am An American Day" and urge that it be observed widely throughout this Commonwealth."

Boston Captain Wins Decoration

ABOARD A U. S. DESTROYER OFF TANAMERAH BAY, Dutch New Guinea, April 22 (Delayed) (AP)—Troops still were pouring ashore and the assault aaginst the Japanese in the Hollandia area was in full swing, but rear Adm. Daniel E. Barbey, of Portland, Ore., who commanded the amphibious phase of the operation, took time off to decorate Capt. Neile D. Brantly, of Boston, aboard Brantly's sub chaser.

The decoration—Marine Corps Medal—was for his work in marking the landing areas and channel during the American landing on Cape Gloucester in New Britain about two months ago.

House Faces Week Delay on Vets' Bill

By FRANK REILLY
Boston American Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 12—With major word battles developing over the educational and unemployment compensation provisions of the "G-I bill of rights," the House of Representatives today settled down to a long debate which may delay action on the measure until late next week.

As the debate got under way, leading members of the House agreed that the G-I bill is going to be passed, with the majority of the membership ready to vote it through.

But the measure in its present form bears little resemblance to the bill drawn up by the American Legion and passed unanimously by the Senate last March. Many changes, minor amendments and perhaps some major alterations, will probably be discussed and voted on before the proposed legislation is adopted.

One of the first to urge prompt action by the House was Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers of Lowell, who warned that "it's a long time since Pearl Harbor" and reminded her listeners that Canada has had such a bill since 1941.

She said she knew many House members had additional thoughts in connection with the care of the disabled veterans, but asked that their plans be included in separate bills to prevent further delay.

Rep. Paul Cunningham of Iowa had taken the floor and said that it was Mrs. Rogers who was responsible for inclusion in the bill of a provision making it mandatory that disabled men be properly trained in the use of artificial limbs before being discharged.

Rep. Graham A. Barden of North Carolina read a telegram signed by the members of the executive committee of the Governors' Conference of the United States, including Gov. Saltonstall of Massachusetts. This asked the House to make it mandatory in the bill that there be local control over the education of veterans, rather than by federal agencies.

Rep. John E. Rankin, chairman of the House committee which rewrote the bill, told his colleagues that the estimated cost of the bill was $6,510,000,000, of which between 2½ and three billions will be the cost of the educational feature.

Kay, Noted Band Leader, Dies

DALLAS, May 12 (AP)—Herbie Kay, 40, nationally-known bandleader, died at a hospital here.

Kay had been here for several weeks, coming from the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., where he had gone for treatment.

His widow, the former Betty Denning, lives in Dallas.

Kay was the former husband of Actress Dorothy Lamour, who got her singing start with the Kay band.

Vets to Lead Groups Smashing Bigotry

Back to their people today, nearly 1000 leaders of all faiths in Massachusetts, carried the inspiring message of Vice Adm. Randall Jacobs that America's returning servicemen will help to smash down the barriers of religious misunderstanding and bigotry, because they are learning good will, tolerance and the "great deal of good that is common to all religions."

Principal speaker at the seventh annual dinner of the Massachusetts Committee of Catholics, Protestants and Jews, at the Copley Plaza Hotel here, Adm. Jacobs said he could not believe that the nation's fighting men who have "seen humanity at its best and at its worst will ever lend themselves to the petty bickering of small-minded bigots."

The admiral's address keynoted a program which included solemn tributes to the memory of the late William Cardinal O'Connell and to former Navy Secretary Frank Knox.

"I suspect that religious prejudices are deep rooted," Adm. Jacobs declared, "and have the durability of weeds. To displace intolerance, to substitute the spirit of live-and-let-live, will take the efforts of our best minds and most statwart leaders. It is encouraging to see a group like yours searching for the things which may unify us so we may go forward as one nation indivisible."

The annual citation of the committee was awarded by Gov. Saltonstall to Charles Francis Adams, president of the Community Fund and former Secretary of the Navy.

Gov. Saltonstall also paid honor to the memory of Cardinal O'Connell as "typifying the ideals of good will" and a formal tribute was read by Judge A. E. Pinanski, a member of the executive committee in which the churchman was described as "an articulate foe of bigotry and intolerance."

At the conclusion, a moment of silence was observed in memory of Sec. Knox, who was the guest of honor at the dinner last year.

The meeting also paid tribute to three servicemen, introduced by Chief Justice John P. Higgins, as representative heroes of three major religious faiths. They were Ship's Cook 1/c William O. Caspar, Corp. Americo Carnevali, USMC and Corp. Isaac Shakin, USA.

Other speakers at the dinner included Mayor Maurice Tobin, Col. Benjamin Cassidy, USAAF and Col. Ruth C. Streeter, director of the Marine Corps Women's Reserve.

Lo! A Sloth!

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 12 (AP)—A baby sloth, believed by Zookeeper Julian Frazier to be the first born in captivity, has been born at the Forest Park Zoo.

The young sloth appeared at first to have little chance to live. The sloth generally does not live longer than a year in captivity, Frazier said, but the pair at the Zoo has been here three years.

Bricker Trains Guns On Deal Farm Rule

By GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

DES MOINES, May 12—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio came into the heart of the midcontinent corn belt to deliver a smashing indictment of the whole Roosevelt Administration farm policy.

Speaking before an audience of Iowa Republicans last night the Governor declared the country needed a complete change in its agricultural leadership, and an abandonment of the philosophy of scarcity.

This philosophy, he said, had thrown the American economic system out of balance and had aggravated the depression, by reducing crop and livestock production and depriving thousands of farm workers of employment.

FIRST ANALYSIS

It was the first analysis of the agricultural problem which Gov. Bricker had made since formally announcing his candidacy for the Republican nomination for president.

Referring to the Montgomery Ward case, and the removal from his office of Sewell Avery, Gov. Bricker said "that was a most un-American and dangerous thing. Moreover, the attorney general of the United States virtually said, 'no man is free.'

In his address on the farm problems, Gov. Bricker said:

"Today, after 29 months of war, an effective food policy is imperative. It is an unsound policy that guarantees floor prices to secure production and then permits the floor to sag.

"This nation needs a change in agricultural leadership. The best agricultural leaders, the best brains of the processing and distributing business must replace the New Deal's motley collection of young lawyers, so-called economists, officious bureaucrats and upgraded government clerks who now determine our food program.

DEFINITE REQUIREMENTS

"There is no cure-all, but there are some definite and fundamental requirements. I wish to suggest to you three of them.

"1—Let us end forever the New Deal philosophy of scarcity. More food, better food, and greater varieties of food and farm products are possible.

"2—The second step follows the first. Full production of the things that are needed and the resulting increase in the ability to buy will remove all necessity or excuse for subsidies.

"3—The Department of Agriculture must be restored to its intended function of a service agency. Education in soil conservation, experiment stations and demonstration farms to point the way to a sound soil conservation program."

Reardon Named For Test Case

James S. Reardon, brother-in-law of Dr. Patrick J. Foley, school committee chairman, was named to the $6000-a-year school custodian post to obtain a Supreme Court decision on the committee's right to fill the position without civil service supervision.

This was the contention today of Committeemen Joseph C. White, Michael J. Ward and Chairman Foley

3 Hub Fliers in RAF Blue Eagles

Three Greater Boston fliers, former members of the RAF, were included in a group of Americans who bombed Berlin months before the first official United States raid against the Nazi capital, the British Air Service Command disclosed today in an Associated Press dispatch.

Sergt. William E. Adams of Lexington pilots a British bomber and Sergt. William MacReady of Boston is thought to be the only enlisted navigator in the European theater.

Lieut. Arnold Berman of Dorchester flies with the British as a gunner, one of the very few officers listed as a gunner. Because American regulations do not list officer-gunners, Berman gets no flight pay for his exploits.

The group is unofficially called the "Blue Eagle Air Force" and includes RAF-trained men who went overseas to join British air units before America entered the war.

They shifted to the AAF after Dec. 7, 1941, but were permitted to return to their former RAF crews for duty. They are officially known as "members of the American Air Force on detached service with the RAF."

Prof. James Ford Of Harvard Dies

Prof. James Ford, 59, Lincoln professor of social ethics at Harvard University and a national authority on slum clearance and housing, died suddenly in Stockbridge, last night while visiting friends, it was announced today.

He is survived by his widow, Katherine Morrow Ford, and four children; Miss Margaret Ford, Lincoln; James A. Ford, Concord; Mrs. Edward Francis, Dover, and Mrs. Edward Reid, St. Louis.

He was born in Clinton and had been a member of the Harvard faculty since 1909. Recognized as one of the outstanding housing experts in the country, he had been consultant to the federal government on housing from 1918 up to the time of his death. He wrote four books on the subject and was head of President Hoover's committee on Housing and Home Ownership from 1930 to 1937.

F. D. to Ease Up In Terrific Pace

WASHINGTON, May 12 (INS)—President Roosevelt is going to "take it easy" for the next few weeks following his four-week rest-cure in the sun on Bernard M. Baruch's South Carolina plantation.

His official duties are being considerably curtailed to follow a pattern of "part work—part rest."

Vice-Admiral Ross T. McIntire, the President's personal physician, has advised him not to resume, for the time being, the fast pace and the 18-hour day which characterized his tremendous drive and energy for years.

A daily routine has been worked out that will permit the President to get all of his necessary official duties done, but at the same time will afford sufficient rest and sunshine.

Hospitals Plead For More Help

Warning that unless more Massachusetts citizens offer help to relieve critically understaffed hospitals, many institutions will be forced to eliminate vital public services, Dr. Vlado A. Getting, state commissioner of public health, today appealed for more volunteers to work in hospitals.

In his statement observing National Hospital Day, Dr. Getting said:

"Our hospitals have never been so seriously overtaxed as now, with more civilians seeking hospital care than at any previous time, and with the shortage of manpower becoming desperate.

"More than one-third of our physicians are in the armed forces, and a great many nurses are in uniform."

No matter what your occupation or how limited your time, Dr. Getting stated, "Massachusetts hospitals need your help more than ever."

He urged men, women and students to offer their services as nurses and ward aids, clinical assistants and for clerical work.

MONSEY, N. Y., May 12 (INS)—An aging dachshund and an equally senile cheetah, living in luxury under the terms of a will left by the late Mrs. Elizabeth M. Miller, were the central figures in a $160,000 legal dispute.

When Mrs. Miller died Aug. 3, 1942, she left an estate estimated at that time as being worth $20,000. Mrs. Miller's niece, Betty Miller of New York, was bequeathed $6,000 while the remainder of the estate was set aside to keep the dachshund and the cheetah, pets of Mrs. Miller's, in bones and whatever cheetahs prefer for their diets.

After their deaths, Mrs. Miller's will provided that her attorney, Robert E. Swezey, should receive the balance of the remaining principal.

Recently, it was discovered that instead of being worth $20,000 Mrs. Miller's estate had a value of $160,000. Miss Miller asks that the will be reconstructed, contending that it was not her aunt's desire to will $154,000 to the animals.

Landing Craft Workers Set Record

PORTLAND, Ore., May 12 (AP)—Workers at Commercial Iron Works here today claim a record in assembling a 157-foot infantry landing craft within 10 hours after keel laying.

They had the craft afloat 26 hours after starting assembly work.

Gassed

LONDON, May 12 (AP)—North Londoners going to work today in the Hendon area thought they were encountering an early morning mist but they quickly learned from weeping eyes and parched tongues it was a mysteriously loosed heavy concentration of tear gas.

There was no immediate clue how it came to be there, authorities said.

Italy

Gen. Oliver Leese, successor to Gen. Montgomery as Eighth Army commander, said:

"Our task is to assault and break through in turn a series of natural defensive positions strongly held and long prepared, each of which the Germans will cling to until forced out.

"Our immediate objective is the Gustav Line, which has been fortified for many months past, and includes modern concrete defense works in many places.

"Behind this lies the Adolf Hitler line, another strong natural defensive position, which German military engineers prepared for months past, strengthened to the utmost, and which Hitler's troops will be ordered to hold to the last man. The defenses we now are attacking are the strongest the British army has encountered in the present war."

Anticipating the onslaught, the enemy has strengthened defenses, especially the Hitler Line, with steel and concrete, using his own men and thousands of Italian laborers.

The Germans also cleared civilians out of an area behind the front at least 20 miles deep, which now has become an arena of a slugging match unrivaled in Italian history.

A special communique announcing the beginning of the offensive said the regrouping of the Allied armies had been "successfully completed without enemy interference," adding:

"The operation has been covered by continual air action and patrol activity along the whole front. Complicated and heavy road and rail movements of men and material have been smoothly carried out."

In a dispatch from an advanced Allied air base this morning, Associated Press War Correspondent Kenneth L. Dixon quoted returning fliers as saying that the raging Rapido river in the vicinity of Cassino apparently provided one of the first major obstacles for the advancing Allied troops.

Its water several times before have run red in the vicinity of Cassino.

DESCRIBES BATTLE

Lynn Heinzerling, AP correspondent, said the artillery barrage was the most awe-inspiring of the whole war. In his dispatch he said it opened "promptly at 11 p. m., when livid flashes cut across the valley.

"Then the entire sky seemed alight and for miles the dark background was splashed with brilliant flashes of the guns. Far behind the German lines the bursting shells seems to dance along the ground like an electric signboard. The guns never stopped and after four hours there seemed to be no perceptible slackening.

"There was very little answering fire from the Germans."

A dispatch from Sid Feder, AP correspondent at the front, said the artillery bombardment was so fierce that one particular sector was pounded with 5000 rounds of large caliber shells in one hour.

The doughboys moved in under flares and against mortars, machine guns and minefields, he said.

Directing a big part of the artillery barrage was Lieut.-Col. Franklin Miller, better known to his men as "Windy" because he is so quiet about what his artillery can do.

Feder added: "Red and green flares lit the sky for miles around for hours and silhouetted us, dug in on a hilltop only a few hundred yards from a cemetery from which one outfit jumped off. One colonel insisted on standing to see how his men were doing.

"They were doing fine, too.

"Lieut.-Col. Raymond E. Kendall, Manchester, N. H., was in charge of the actual operation."

Q—What is limited service? A. B., New Bedford.

A—A limited service man is one who is disqualified under current physical standards for general military service, but who has been classified following thorough physical examination as physically fit for certain types of active military assignment commensurate with his physical qualifications. Offically there is no longer any such designation for enlisted personnel.

Q—My brother has started sending me $25 per month since he left for overseas duty. On the envelope it says "Office of Dependency Benefit" and I am called an allottee. Is the government sending this money? I want to be sure I am entitled to it before depositing the check? D. S. A., Brockton.

A—You are entitled to it. This is a Class E allotment made by the soldier—all from his pay and nothing added by the government. Allotment checks as well as Family Allowance checks are mailed form the Office of Dependency Benefits, Newark, N. J.

Q—Is a soldier compelled to pay his wife any money after they are divorced, if she gets the divorce? A. B., Arlington.

A—If the divorce decree calls for alimony, the wife may receive the alimony up to $42.00 per month.

Q—How may it be determined whether or not an individual had become a member of the United States Army? Mrs. W. C., Reading.

A—Check with the local draft board at his last known address. If that fails and you are a relative, write to the Adjutant General, Washington, 25, D. C., giving the same information.

More Jap Atrocities

REPORTS of the unspeakable brutality of the Japanese continue to reach America.

Allied Headquarters in New Guinea now quotes the Sikhs, liberated when the Americans successfully invaded Hollandia and Aitape, as saying:

"On an 18-day march from Singapore to Kuala Lumpur in Malaya we were herded along a road like cattle.

"At one place we saw numbers of Chinese who had been nailed to palm trees with iron spikes driven through their foreheads.

"Fifteen Sikhs who had become ill were summarily put to death at Rabaul, New Britain.

"On a ship which took us to the Admiralty Islands we were packed below decks like animals —two thousand of us.

"Having reached the islands, we were forced to dig trenches for the Japanese but were left entirely unprotected ourselves."

Such revelations agitate and anger relatives and friends of the heroic Americans who have been prisoners of the Japanese since the fall of Bataan.

But do they have the same rousing effect on the American Government?

Millions in Massachusetts and the 47 other States are still waiting to hear what steps have been taken to arrange an exchange of prisoners and thus rescue the men who have experienced this war at its horrible worst.

It has been repeatedly suggested that the American Government ask Soviet Russia, which maintains friendly relations with Japan, to use its good offices to make possible such an exchange.

But Washington has given no indication of action.

Our New England Representatives in Congress, proving themselves truly representative of constituents who hope to see their sons again, should demand the reason.

Speed Boosts Death Toll

THE Massachusetts Safety Council has stated that violations of the speed limit by motorists, rather than recklessness on the part of pedestrians, is responsible for the large increase in fatal accidents on the State's highways.

This is hardly news. Most persons who have watched the 35-mile regulation become more and more of a farce have suspected it for months.

Moreover, Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin has constantly deplored excessive speed in his weekly reports, and only this week he lashed out vigorously at the manner in which Army cars are being operated in South Boston.

It remains for the State and municipal police departments to enforce the law and give speeders the choice of driving more slowly or not at all.

There is no reason why either the police or the courts should pamper individuals whose presence behind the wheel is a constant menace to pedestrians and other motorists.

Postwar Training for Youth

J. EDGAR HOOVER, able and popular head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, recently advocated that military training for young men be continued for at least a year after the war as a means of curbing crime and building a reserve of manpower for any future emergency.

This, Mr. Hoover rightly points out, would not promote a militaristic spirit but, on the other hand, would give young men desirable and necessary physical and disciplinary training.

Even better and more beneficial would be a system of universal training for defense patterned after the provenly democratic Swiss plan.

This would keep both the country and its manhood at the peak of fitness and it would not operate to the disadvantage of any citizen.

WASHINGTON, May 12—Now that Franklin D. Roosevelt is no longer commander-in-chief of Montgomery Ward & Co., the big mail order house is back on its own.

Of course, you can ask, "Its own what?" but if you want to ask that kind of questions you can bloody well supply your own answers.

Sewell Avery, head of the outfit, went back to his desk with glum forebodings. Maybe his dourness was integsified by the fact that he had to walk. The United States Army declined to carry him back in, possibly on the grounds that it had done enough for him in carrying him out.

Avery, who will probably never get himself elected international president of the Optimist Clubs, said he expected to find that business had dropped off 30 or 40 per cent under government operation.

He said this before he had gone back into the plant to look over a single ledger, but it may be that Avery is not enthusiastic about governmental enterprise.

It so happened I was in the office of Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones when Avery's prediction of a business slump came over the wires. I am not going too extensively into what happened there because I am going to do a whole column soon on a day spent with Secretary Jones. I will say, however, that it was the most fascinating experience of my life.

NORMAN BAXTER, the secretary's right hand man, came in and said that the news services wanted to know if Mr. Jones had any retort to Mr. Avery's crack.

"Ask George here," said Mr. Jones, who had his best kidding shoes on. "He's been advising me all day."

It was the opportunity I had been waiting for all my newspaper life.

"You may tell those pettifogging reporters," I told Mr. Baxter, "that I have nothing to say for publication at this time."

"Nuts," said Mr. Baxter.

Just then Undersecretary of Commerce Wayne Chatfield Taylor, who has been running Montgomery Ward for F. D. R., telephoned from Chicago to report that the newspapermen out there had also been pestering him for a statement in answer to Avery. He wanted instructions.

Mr. Chatfield Taylor must have left the phone a very bewildered man because Secretary Jones told him:

"George Dixon says you have nothing to say."

William C. Costello, of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, came in at this point to announce that James V. Forrestal had just been made Secretary of the Navy. Hardly were the words out of Bill's mouth when the special telephone connecting the White House and all cabinet members buzzed—and it was Mr. Forrestal on the line.

Secretary Jones transferred his joshing to his new cabinet colleague.

"Congratulations, Jim," he said. "I had a tough time putting you over, but I finally made it. No—don't thank me. You're entirely welcome."

NOW THAT Montgomery Ward has been returned to private ownership, I do not suppose I will ever get any reply to the open letter I wrote to the company, because I addressed it care of F. D. Roosevelt. I asked the President to use his good offices in getting me a catalogue.

Although I heard from neither Montgomery Ward nor its temporary boss, Mr. Roosevelt, I did receive a communication from its government unaided rival, Sears Roebuck.

Enclosed were two catalogues.

SINCE HIS differences with a certain titillatingly-illustrated magazine, Postmaster General Frank C. Walker has been getting more and more annoyed by a form of waggishness which is being perpetrated against him.

He keeps getting letters addressed "Frank C. Walker, Esquire."

AN UNSPEAKABLE cut-up was at work in the White House press room Wednesday. Just before announcement of the new Navy Secretary was due he went about switching the receivers on the telephones connecting directly with newspaper bureaus.

Reporters dashed in with the Forrestal news and picked up receivers without looking to see whether they were on the right stands.

The nicest ball-up was when a New York reporter found himself talking to the Christian Science Monitor!

A pressing lover seldom wants success
While the respectful, like the Greek, sits down
And waits a 10 years' siege before one town.
—NICHOLAS ROWE.

ABOVE is an excerpt from our Horses and Women files . . . All the world loves a lover. Some lovers the world lover more than others. For example, a man who loves his wife and is not afraid to say so. Therefore, I give you Isadore Gomez of San Francisco, who has wired this department as follows: "You seem to doubt a marriage can be happy if the wife is 18 years older than the husband. I came to this country from Portugal a poor boy, friendless and alone. I was also without education. When 24 I married a woman 20 years older. She has been a friend, sweetheart and mother to me. Her help, wisdom and love have made my life a success. A magazine once printed my picture saying I was the best known cafe owner in San Francisco. For 44 years I have come home each night eagerly to see my wife. I have had thoughts for no other woman. I am now 68. She is 88. But our love is still young."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Let's see how close you can come to naming the period in which following songs were popular. (1) "A Bird in a Gilded Cage." (2) "Meet Me in St. Louis, Louie." (3) "I Can't Give You Anything but Love, Baby." (4) "Chloe." (5) "Rufus Rastus Johnson Brown." (6) "Roses of Picardy." (7) "All Alone by the Telephone." A—My guesses are as follows: (1) 1902. (2) 1904. (3) 1924. (4) 1928. (5) 1910. (6) 1915. (7) 1923 . . . Q—Do you like Hungarian goulash? A—I can take it or leave it. However, my old pal, W. S. Hart, the two-gun man of the movies, is a great Hungarian goulash fan and says the best goulash ever made was that served by the old Hoffman Cafe in Los Angeles . . . Q—Is it not a fact the Bible distinctly states "women shall not wear that which pertaineth to man?" And if so, why do even the most ardent feminine churchgoers wear slacks? A—Slacks worn by women are made for women and cannot be classed as male attire. If a man wore these slacks he would be wearing feminine attire.

SAYS HE: "So some U. S. Coast Guard fellows have been trying to tell you their organization is older than the U. S. Marines. Tell them to pipe down," writes a Marine. "The U. S. Coast Guard was not created until Jan. 28, 1915. It is a combination of the Revenue Cutter Service and the Life Saving Service. The U. S. Marine Corps was organized July 11, 1798. The Coast Guard fellows make their claim of being an older organization because the Revenue Cutter Service was started in 1790. There is a lot of difference between a Revenue Cutter Service and a Coast Guard. The Marines have always been 100 per cent Marines. Don't get the idea the Marines are sore at the Coast Guard. They are nice boys and we think they have a good future. However, the U. S. Marines have a good past, present and future."

ASIDES: Another successful marriage in which the wife was 18 or more years older than the husband is that of Mrs. Fifi Stillman and Fowler McCormick. At the time of their marriage Mrs. Stillman was 53 and Mr. McCormick 32 . . . Some clients are trying to tell me softball is "a strenuous and manly game." Gentlemen, your claim is ridiculous. Give your young son a real baseball and a regular bat and have him play the manly national game. If your wife wants to reduce, tell her to get some other plump ladies together and form a softball team.

PLEASE NOTE: The National Detection of Deception Laboratories is the name of a Chicago organization. Results of this outfit's system of lie detecting have been admitted as evidence in 52 court cases. Married couples have also availed themselves of this organization's service. It was recently used by a man who suspected his wife's fidelity. The lie detector vindicated the wife was innocent.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 12—The gang at Paramount almost wore out the red carpets and welcome sign waiting for Paulette Goddard to make up her mind to leave New York.

Every day a welcoming committee was assembled, only to be told La Goddard had decided to remain East another day. Not that a soul blamed her after her strenuous trip overseas and her illness. She has been having fun in New York and her studio believes she has a good time coming to her.

Now that she is back (we hope) she starts with Edith Head on her costumes for "Kitty," an English story laid in the 17th century. She begins in life as a girl of the streets and ends as a fashionable lady. I was talking to Buddy De Sylva about Paulette and he tells me he has bought "Masquerade in Mexico" for her from Karl Tumberg and Darrell Ware, who will also produce it, and with that Mexican Don Juan, Arturo De Cordova, as her screen vis-a-vis.

* * *

WHEN I ASKED about Hedy Lamarr starring in "Experiment Perilous" at RKO there was a lot of surprise that I knew Hedy had been paged. "We'd like to get her," said Charlie Koerner, "but we can't do anything about borrowing her until Louis B. Mayer returns from New York." Hedy, one of her friends told me, is reading the script and likes it. "Experiment Perilous," which was one of the most widely read books of last year, is a great story and should make the beautiful Lamarr very happy, provided the deal goes through. And since MGM has nothing ready for her, it could be.

* * *

QUIET SPOKEN Brian Aherne has asserted himself and is refusing to do "Stalk the Hunter," so there is a suspension in the air. Brian read the script, decided it wasn't for him and without further delay refused to make it. So I reckon he'll remain at his desert ranch. Joan Fontaine is still in Canada and goes to New York for a whirl before she comes home. She and Brian have only communicated by letters since their separation and haven't so much as seen each other.

MRS. CLARA CLEMENS GABRILOWITSCH couldn't have timed her marriage to Jacques Samossoud, musical director, better. She became his bride yesterday in a service performed at her home in Hollywood by Rev. William Everett of the Community Presbyterian Church. She is the daughter of Mark Twain, and Twain, since Warners filmed his biography, is the greatest topic of conversation. Not that they added one whit to Twain's stature as a great writer and humorist, but people have started to talk about him all over again. Samossoud was musical director of "Knickerbocker Holiday." The bride's first husband, who is buried next to her father, Mark Twain, was also a famous musician. Samossoud, through his attorney, obtained a divorce Wednesday in Las Vegas from his former wife, Thalia Sabonieeza, noted opera singer.

HUGH KING, who knows the value of any and all plays and books for the screen, is leaving the Myron Selznick office, where he was the head of the literary department. Hugh is saying good-by to the harrowing life of an agent to become story editor for Republic. His contract is directly with Herbert Yates and he selects the plays and books and is in complete charge of this department. Republic is planning eight productions at a million a picture, so it behooves Hugh to get some good properties.

* * *

REPUBLIC, the little studio in the valley, gets fancier all the time. For its first musical, "Brazil," it has lined up Tito Guizar for the top male role in a cast that includes Veloz and Yolanda and Edward Everett Horton.

* * *

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: The Walter Moroscos have parted. Surprising, since they have a 6-months-old baby. She was the former Shirley Listenwalter, a nonprofessional; Nancy Kelly and Edmund O'Brien may try it again. They have been having serious reconciliation talks in New York; Faye Emerson's long-lost sister, Virginia, just reunited with her, is being tested at Warner's; there's a rumor that Mrs. John Huston, who has been separated from her soldier-husband for three years, will give him his freedom; a drunk in his birthday suit, ringing doorbells in Ida Lupino's neighborhood, gave her the scare of a lifetime; the Theater Guild is offering Lillian and Dorothy Gish the starring roles in "Sainted Sisters," set for fall production; Richard Whorf, director and actor, has been sworn into the Navy; Eddie Small is interested in Joan Crawford and several other well-known femme stars to play "Belle Donna."

* * *

LIEUT. EDDIE ALBERT is here on leave; Col. Hal Roach, who was called back to Washington a day sooner than he expected, had a family dinner party last night. Hal looks awfully well, and I am told is doing a grand job for Uncle Sam; Katharine Hepburn reaches here June 1 to start "Without Love," and that means that Spencer Tracy, who plays opposite her, gets practically no time between pictures; Carol Bruce, once rumored wed to Gene Krupa, was a dinner twosome with Tom Neal; the Kent Smiths have welcomed a baby girl, and the nice part about it is that Kent, who is in the Army, was home at the time.

Vincent Club Re-Elects Julia Barbour

POPULAR JULIA BARBOUR was re-elected president of the Vincent Club at the annual election held at a dinner meeting at the Junior League last night.

Genial Julia, whose talents range the fields of writing, art, sports and music, received an unanimous vote, as did Dorothy Rackemann, re-elected first vice-president, who will again be the show committee chairman.

New on the roster of Vincent officers is L. Rosamond (Darby) Almy, a conscientious and hard-working member of the group, who has been chosen secretary. She is one of this season's debs. Sally Wigglesworth, whose family has long been associated with this exclusive club whose efforts are the mainstay of the Vincent Memorial Hospital, was elected second vice-president and program chairman for the show. Mrs. Arthur Fiedler (Ellen Bottomley) is to be publicity chairman, with Mrs. Edward B. Long serving as assistant secretary. The existing treasurer and assistant treasurer, Jane Megrew and Mrs. Laurence Morgan, respectively, will still fill unexpired terms.

Julia Barbour

Attractive Phyllis "Fifi" Long, Mrs. Arthur D. Brooks and Mrs. John E. Yerxa are the new members elected to the executive committee.

LATEST TO JOIN the ranks of girls trying to plan a wartime wedding is Susan Baker of Boston and Weston, whose mother, Mrs. Royce Baker, is announcing today her engagement to Neil Samuel MacKenna, USA, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. MacKenna of Wayland.

Neil is stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., and plans for the wedding which is to take place shortly are now in the hands of Uncle Sam. If the prospective bridegroom can get a furlough, a small, quiet ceremony will be held here in town within the next few weeks. If no furlough is forthcoming, Susan, like many another Beantown deb, will journey to Georgia for her nuptials. Susan is the daughter of Roland M. Baker of Otis pl.

A SOCIETY EVENT of interest to all is the coming display of garments made for refugees in western Europe by volunteer workers in the many relief workshops in town, to be held in the Colonial Room of the Copley Plaza, Wednesday afternoon, May 24, at 4:30.

The event is under management of the Committee of the French Relief Fund of Massachusetts and is sponsored by the workshops of the French Relief Fund, the Queen Wilhelmina Fund, the Norwegian Relief Fund and the Belgian Relief Fund. The public is cordially invited.

Orson Adams, Jr., heads the committee in charge, together with Mrs. Robert W. Lovett and Mrs. William D. Sohier, vice-chairman of the French Relief Fund.

Mrs. John A. Tuckerman, who has charge of the Fighting French Restaurant on Newbury st., is also serving on the committee.

Assisting the senior committee will be a junior auxilliary which includes debutantes Jean Cochrane, Augusta Wolcott, Nancy Stodder, Gwendolen Fearing, Edith Cunningham, Barbara Ginn and Catharine Morison.

Prayers of Godfrey's Mother Answered

By PAUL WHELTON AND JAMES F. McENANEY

Five Nazi fighter planes had gone bucketing down, spewing smoke and flame, and two of the five pilots were riding the silk, all as a result of Gentile & Godfrey teamwork. But then, directly ahead and a litle under, came another Jerry, spitting fire and lead.

Capt. Don Gentile of Ohio and Lieut. Johnny Godfrey of Woonsocket, R. I., were not to go home yet after their five shared victories. They barked at each other over the radiophones, calling again for the squeeze play.

Both Yankees did a cross-turn on the German and Gentile gave him a squirt from his guns. He overshot, however, and yelled to Godfrey to take over.

GODFREY ROCKETS IN

The "long drink of water" from Woonsocket rocketed in, eager and confident. He squeezed, but nothing happened. The German's lead was flying all over the place. Godfrey squeezed again, and still nothing happened. He was out of ammunition and on a very bad spot indeed.

But Gentile, as if sensing his new-found partner's plight, came roaring back, snapping a word to Johnny to keep bluffing the German—then the Ohioan closed with his fast fighter. The German bit hard and, in belief that he had two live and wild Mustangs to contend with, wheeled and rolled and dived from 20,000 feet down to 1000.

At that low level the Yankee "brother act" twisted, turned, cut inside and rolled out, trying to trap the skilled Nazi fighter, but he was slippery as an eel and headed finally for the "deck."

They were almost at treetop level when one of Gentile's shots hit the German's belly tank. His tail was suddenly obscured by smoke and yellow streaks of flame. Straight to earth he crashed—and pieces of burning airplane spattered the countryside.

A STYLE IS SET

That teamwork technique was what Gentile and Godfrey used thereafter during their forays over Europe, until they were relieved and sent home to rest, Gentile with a "positive" score of 30 enemy aircraft destroyed in the air and on the ground, Godfrey with 23.

"When I know he has made his last operational fight," his patriotic but worried mother said this week at Woonsocket, "then I'll be the happiest woman in Rhode Island, perhaps you might say in the entire country.

"I'm not the least bit concerned about his making any record I've been waiting over two years for his return. When he does return for good, my prayers will have been answered."

This is the mother who is still Johnny Godfrey's only girl.

It is the mother to whom Johnny wrote from England, on his 50th birthday, after he had returned from a mission protecting bombers and had knocked down three enemy fighters with Gentile:

"If only one could turn back the pages of time just for a few years! I am sure that I could have made things lots easier and happier for you.

"I remember that saying, 'Home is a place you live until you leave it; when you do leave, you realize what home is.' I know what is meant by the quotation now.

DEEP AS THE OCEAN

"You and Dad mean home to me. Having a mother looking after you all thru the years, not complaining one bit, getting me ready for school every morning, looking after me whenever I get sick, even putting up with my petty grievances when anything goes wrong—that is why, on your birthday, I look back at all the fine things you have done for me.

"You will be a little older in a week or so. Undoubtedly you will say to yourself, 'I'm practically alone after raising four sons.' But I don't think anything like that, even though 3000 miles of ocean separate us.

"I'll be coming back some day, not to my fickle girl who claims she's in love with me but to a mother's love which is deep as the ocean and cannot be bought for all the money on earth."

That day finally has arrived and Johnny's heading home again to the little white cottage in Louisaisset pike, North Smithfield—the house which flies constantly the Stars and Stripes at one end of the porch and the Union Jack at the other. This is the Johnny Godfrey, of which his mates wrote so prophetically in their 1940 Woonsocket High School class book:

"We consider popular Johnny a regular fellow. His hopes and plans are for military school and he spends his leisure time hunting and sleeping. Johnny is the best of the class, the most likely to succeed, the most popular and the all around member."

Dig Tons of Paper From Office Shelves

Files, office shelves and storerooms of the State House and 30 other state buildings throughout Massachusetts contributed tons of old correspondence, documents and books to the special office clean-out paper salvage campaign today.

Tax. Commr. Henry F. Long's donation included official correspondence with cities and towns dating back more than 100 years. The Industrial Accident Board disposed of all its case records from the time of its establishment until 1929.

Meanwhile, collection trucks centered most of their activity in the section of downtown Boston extending west from Washington st., the hotel and theater district.

The Advertising Club of Boston, conducting the drive, scheduled an outdoor rally and broadcast in front of the Hotel Bradford at 1:45 p. m., carried over the air by Station WBZ, to spur the clean-out campaign in that area.

General Chairman George C. Wiswell of the drive, Dist. Chairman David Malchiel and Robert N. Appleton, manager of the Hotel Bradford, were among those taking part in the program.

Early Plantings Should Show Now

By FOSTER H. WEISS

(Head, Vegetable Gardening Department, Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director of the Boston Record-American-Advertiser demonstration garden on Boston Common.)

Victory gardeners soon should be able to note results of their early planting, with the soil moist from recent rains and the weather gradually, but consistently warming up.

In the demonstration garden, all of our early plantings have come up well and we have completed the first cultivation. If some soils show a tendency to form a crust, this crust should be broken as soon as the rows can be followed.

CULTIVATE

This term should mean the general working and loosening of the soil during the growing period, and the killing of weeds. Methods of cultivation will vary with different crops and soils. Small crops planted close together are usually hoed. Do not dig deep but do a clean job. Larger crops can be cultivated with hand cultivators which have three to five teeth. Do not dig deep as you will damage roots.

BEETS—GENERAL CULTURE

Beets are one of the oldest and most popular root crops for small gardens. It is not considered as valuable as the carrot for its root, but a well planned garden should give variety and well grown beets will add much to a garden. This crop also acts as a dual purpose crop in that it can supply V-Gardeners with excellent beet greens. These greens are rated very high by food specialists and are preferred to spinach by many.

Beets are a hardy crop and prefer cool weather, but will grow right through the season. In spring the seed germinates slowly, but they can be planted as soon as the ground can be worked. The young seedling beet does not stand heavy frost and will not do much after heavy freezing.

SOIL FOR BEETS

The crop will do well on New England soils provided there is a good supply of humus present and the acidity has been corrected. If the soil is acid, beets will grow slowly and the tops will be small and red. Beets are a good indicator of soil condition as they are quite sensitive.

FERTILIZER

Like other root crops it is a heavy feeder and requires a fertilizer high in nitrogen. A side dressing of nitrate of soda seems to help this crop on most soils.

Sow seeds in shallow drills about 12-14 inches apart and cover about ½ to ¾ inches after the seed is planted.

The best varieties for V-gardeners are the quick growing Crosley Egyptian or Early Wonder types. Sow seed every 2 or 3 weeks for a continuous supply of high quality beets and greens. Culture and care of beets later.

RADISHES

Most gardeners plant too many radishes at one time. I sow a few between the cabbage and broccoli every few days for a constant supply. Scarlet Globe and White Icicle are the two best varieties.

Beauty

Mascara Lasts for Hours

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

THE BEAUTY OF YOUR EYES will be enhanced . . . if you apply mascara with a sweeping upward motion to your upper eyelashes only. Pictured are the soulful orbs of RKO Star Toumanova . . . who includes mascara in a beauty routine which she follows faithfully . . . for the beauty of her glance direct . . . or indirect.

"HANDSOME is that handsome does" . . . wrote Oliver Goldsmith in a cherished, classical line. But we're certain he never suspected his phrase would be applicable to make-up. Yet it is . . . since personality is as individual as the faces of women . . . so makeup must be individual, too.

Just because Mary Lou has eyelashes out to "there" and doesn't have to use mascara to lengthen them . . . is no reason why you shouldn't adopt a beauty aid that is sure-fire in perking up your facial charm.

Nowhere in the world does make-up assume such significance as in Hollywood. And, do you suppose for one moment that any of those glamour-gals could go about . . . having as they do to appear their best at all times . . . without enhancement of their eyelashes?

If you've longingly envied your favorite screen star because of her cup and saucer eyes . . . which give penetrating vigor and vim to her personality . . . look twice and see if it isn't because of her deftly applied eye makeup.

When you make up your face . . . you're simply stressing your personality . . . and no better emphasis could be given the focal beauty point of your face . . . than the subtle application of mascara to your lashes.

IT IS WATERPROOF

Mascara has been rather difficult to get . . . but I've discovered a new shipment of some, created in black, brown and blue . . . by a cosmetic designer of traditional finesse and exquisite preparations. This mascara is waterproof and stays on for hours and hours . . . so smoothly and softly . . . giving such a heavenly sheen to your lashes.

And after it is applied . . . you'll find your lashes curl way out and up in the most devastating way. The old-fashioned idea that "nice" girls don't use mascara went out with the ark . . . and today when femininity is the stressed keynote of fashions and personality . . . a bit of mascara to the eyes imbues a gal with the true spirit of womanhood.

Be starry-eyed and facially star-bright . . . and give subtlety to your orbs with a choice mascara of quality-proven ingredients.

For the name of this grand mascara, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dishes That Supply Plenty of Vitamin A

By MARTHA LEE

HAVE YOU CHALLENGED your intake of vitamin A foods recently? Are you quite sure that despite wartime shortages you are supplying your family with adequate amounts of this essential vitamin?

Green and yellow vegetables and fruits pay vitamin A dividends. They contain a substance known as "carotene" which is converted into vitamin A by the body. According to a government publication, chard, collards, turnip and beet tops, carrots, sweet potatoes and green beans are among the vegetables which make an excellent vitamin A contribution.

The list of fruits isn't quite as extensive. Apricots and yellow peaches are the most common contributors.

CREAMED GREEN VEGETABLES

Use a white sauce for variety in serving fresh green vegetables or in reheating cold vegetables. To each 2 cups of cooked vegetables add 1 cup of white sauce. Stir and heat thoroughly. Or place in a baking dish, cover with bread crumbs, and bake in a moderate oven for a short time.

SPINACH LOAF

Spinach and kale are especially good in a vegetable loaf. Prepare exactly as for creamed vegetables, adding a little chopped onion for flavor. Remove the center of a loaf of day-old bread, leaving a shell for the creamed vegetables. (Use the crumbs in bread or fruit puddings.) Fill with the hot vegetable mixture and moisten the sides and top of the loaf. Bake until hot and crisp, then cut in slices and serve.

BAKED SQUASH GOULASH

4 slices bacon 1 large onion
1 medium-sized summer squash
1 green pepper
2 cups tomatoes, fresh or canned
Salt, pepper and sugar

Cut the bacon in small pieces and fry it. Add the onion sliced thin. Cook the onion until yellow. Add the squash cut in thin cross-wise slices. Add the pepper, cut in small pieces, the tomatoes, salt and pepper and sugar. Mix thoroughly and turn the mixture into a casserole. Cover and bake it in a moderate oven for 1 hour.

GREEN SALADS

Green vegetables, uncooked or cooked, make very attractive salads served alone or in combination with other ingredients. Chop or shred the vegetables just before serving. Here are a few suggestions:

1—Shredded cabbage, chopped onion, and chopped peanuts.

2—Cooked or canned green beans and thinly sliced raw or cooked carrots.

3—Raw chopped spinach with diced tomatoes.

4—Cooked or canned peas and chopped onions.

5—Shredded cabbage and grated or finely chopped raw carrots.

6—Raw chopped spinach with hard cooked egg.

UPSIDE DOWN CAKE

1 cup sifted flour
1½ tsp. baking powder
⅛ tsp. salt
1 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
¼ cup butter or margarine
12 halves canned peaches or apricots 1 cup sugar
2 egg yolks, well beaten
½ cup hot water
1 tsp. vanilla extract
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt. Combine brown sugar and butter in 8-inch frying pan or cake pan, and stir over low heat until thoroughly blended. Arrange fruit in brown sugar mixture, placing apricots or peaches cut side up. Stir sugar slowly into well-beaten egg yolks, add hot water slowly and beat well. Add vanilla extract and sifted dry ingredients, mixing well. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour batter carefully over fruit. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 50 minutes. While hot, invert on serving platter and let stand 1 minute before loosening from pan. Serve hot with whipped cream. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

For Home Use

Don't stage your "charm act" only when you are away from home. Your family would welcome this brightness, too!—Mrs. Beeckman.

She Refuses To Listen

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Perhaps I am too old at 36 to have married a girl 22. My excuse, I was seriously in love for the first time in my life. But now that the honeymoon is over I have a feeling of being in jail. The Little Lady wants to know where I've been, if I'm 10 or 15 minutes late coming home from the office.

She doesn't care about becoming acquainted with life long friends or knowing my family better. She absolutely refuses to listen to reason. What's your suggestion? M. F. T.

No man can go along on as short a chain as your bride prescribes without kicking over the traces. Mixed metaphor, I realize, but the application is simple. You'll have to persuade her to listen to reason. Or take an evening off and after her tears and tantrums have subsided, she'll probably be in a more reasonable mood to listen.

Perhaps her mother or some member of her family can impress her with the wisdom of keeping old friends and relatives on friendly terms.

"My Day"

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Thursday—Yesterday proved to be quite a day in Pittsburgh, Pa. Their USO club near the station is very attractive, with plenty of room for various activities and a nice canteen. Since they mostly entertain transients it is a busy place.

I was quite thrilled to have a chance to meet Commando Kelly at the Rotary Club lunch. He looked so young! I would have liked to sit down and really talk to him, but of course, that was not possible, so I had to be content to wish him luck in the future. Perhaps if he comes to Washington, I may have a chance to see him.

★ ★ ★

AT THE DESHON GENERAL HOSPITAL, which is a very wonderful place because the atmosphere is so cheerful and the surroundings are so pleasant, I talked for a few minutes with Sergt. Forrest L. Vosler of Livonia, N. Y. I remembered reading in the paper about how courageous he was after he had been wounded in both legs. When he realized that he was blind, and that the plane he was in was losing altitude, he asked his buddies to throw him out as well as some of their cargo. They hope now to save the sight of one eye. We are all glad his buddies refused to obey him. He is another young man I hope I shall have a chance to see when he comes to Washington.

★ ★ ★

I DID NOT GET BACK to the hotel until six o'clock. In the evening I spoke for the Teachers' Association, and there was time for questions after the talk, so I did not get on the train until about 10 o'clock. Strange to say, I was quite glad to go to sleep. Someone asked me if I found it hard to sleep after a busy day, and I blithely answered that sleep is one thing I rarely have to woo, since I am able to fall asleep as soon as I get into bed.

Addressing Your Teacher

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN,

I am a senior in high school, and several of my classmates and I would like to have you answer a question. We have the habit of addressing some of our teachers as "Teacher." Since they do not seem to mind this, is it really incorrect?

R. L.

Since you are seniors in high school, you really should long ago have given up this "tiny tot" form of address in favor of the grown-up form, say "Miss Allen." There's courtesy in your using this form of address to your teacher in school just as you would, or should, use it to any woman acquaintance anywhere else. Now that this question you asked has occurred to you, your thinking about the correct use of names can lead you on to realizing what radiant charm there is in the way names can be used!

Silk Linen Is Available for Suits

By BETTINA BEDWELL

SILK linen is one of the splendid natural silks, like shantung, tussore and such, that are available this summer, and if you can have a suit of such material, you are going to have something very grand for your summer wardrobe. Not only that, you will have a suit that you can wear for more than one summer, for such materials stand up and age in beauty.

The silk linen suit is sketched, a model from Alice Orovan, who is a very good custom designer, with a Paris background. She uses natural silk linen for this model, which is trim and tailored in line. The jacket has four small patch pockets set high, with buttoned flaps, which give a certain emphasis to the bosom. The skirt has box pleats at the front.

NEW YORK, May 12—Ah, this spring weather! You can almost see purple-p'nk cows riding the sky over the electric signs on the main s em, can't you? It's lazy weath-e:. Drifting weather. Nonsense weather. Weather for s anding in the sun in Shubert alley and thinking of all the things you'd like to see happen —on Broadway and off . . . A battle of music, for instance, between Toscy and Stoky at any Broadway dance hall—that would be for me! . . . or a night club owner who thinks the 30 per cent tax is okay—I'd like to meet him. What an interview! . . . Phil Baker and Xavier Cugat combing their toupees would make a nice view . . . I'd enjoy meeting a Broadwayite who didn't know the inside-outside of the Chaplin case . . . I'd love it, of course, but I really don't suppose ZaSu Pitts and Margaret Sullavan would change roles for just one performance simply because it's something I'd like to see.

I'D GO without my orange juice for a week if I could see Toots Shor become the luncheon greeter at the Colony and boom "give this bum a table!" when some monocled hi-hat ritzed in . . . I'd give anything to see Broadway Rose wearing the Hope diamond . . . I'd like to meet a soldier who wouldn't care for a date with Ginny Simms. Him I'd psychoanalyze . . . My radio would be on full blast if the Information Please experts would switch one night with the It Pays to Be Ignorant Zanies . . . And one day I'd like to meet a torchbearer who doesn't care to have anything written about his woes.

MY WORK would have to wait and I'd rush like mad over to the Stork to see Commodore Dutch and Louie the Guitar playing gin rummy in the Cub room . . . Vera Zorina dancing a Lindy hop would be up my fantasy alley . . . The Rockefellers backing a good old-fashioned burlesque show—now you'd like to see that, wouldn't you? . . . I'd like to meet and shake the hand of a movie usher who doesn't yell: "Best seats in the ba-a-aalcony!" . . . I wanna to see Ottie's Giants in a win streak—and I may, I hope! . . . a boogie-woogie duet between Victor Borge and Iturbi would bounce me off my seat . . . and who wouldn't like to watch a mimic who does other things besides Lionel Barrymore grumping about and Boy-ai grunting at Hedy! . . . Bing and Bob as end men in a minstrel show—ah, there!

VICTOR MATURE dating the same gal for a couple of nights in a row is something I don't know myself why I should want to see . . . I like promises kept, and I'd like to see trees planted on Sixth avenue . . . Elisabeth Bergner as Peter Pan—I'd be the first one into the theater, when the doors opened on the night of the premiere . . . a miniature ballet in a night club would be for me, especially if they named the place "The Pirouette" . . . Frankie Sinatra wheeling his bambino through Central Park is something I must see—yes, siree! . . . love to watch a bookie walk up to three plain clothes men and tell 'em to break it up . . . I like the name, so I'd like to see the summer resort tagged Wopowog . . . sounds so Bert Lahr-ish.

Star Shine

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, May 12—After I had watched Fred MacMurray play a scene for "Murder, He Says," he walked over to me. "I read that gag you had in the column, you know, about the toy factory and not turning out a dog on a night like this."

Fred MacMurray always appreciative.

"Thanks," I said, "for reading the column." I am always appreciative.

"Well, if you liked that gag," went on MacMurray, "I know a story somewhat similar, yet different, that should interest you."

"Tell it to me, Fred," I asked politely. Fred then told this yarn.

Back in King Arthur's day there was a little knight, just a mite of a fellow, who stood only 2 feet high. Of course, this knight couldn't ride a horse so he was outfitted with a Great Dane dog which wore a saddle just like any mount. The little knight would sit astride his dog and go into battles and jousts with all the other knights of the round table.

★ ★ ★

ONE DAY King Arthur called the little fellow into the throne room and entrusted him with a mission of the greatest importance. The tiny knight mounted his dog and set off determinedly to fulfill his king's desire. For two days he rode through the thick of Sherwood Forest. He was tired and his dog was tired, but this little fellow had plenty of courage and he wasn't going to stop until he had performed his mission.

On the third day, it started to rain. It was a heavy rain and every step of the way was brutal. The dog began to tire fast. His legs began buckling under him and his eyes were almost closed with fatigue. The little knight saw a small cottage and, realizing the condition of his dog, he stopped and rapped on the door.

He explained to the men who he was, what he was doing and pointed to the limp form of the dog next to him. "May we spend the night?" he asked.

"I don't know," said the man. Just then his wife came over and inquired what was going on. The man explained and the wife said: "You can't ask them into the house. They're wet and muddy and they'll get everything wet and muddy."

"But, dear," said the man looking at the poor exhausted dog at the door, "you're not going to turn out a knight on a dog like this!"

OVER AT METRO, they are filming Oscar Wilde's "The Picture of Dorian Grey" with Hurd Hatfield playing the role of Dorian. This particular afternoon, the set was a London mansion and crowded with beautifully gowned women and handsome men. Dorian sits in the midst of this gathering and reads poetry to them while they gaze at his esthetic face. And the Devi Dja Balinese dancers are doing their stuff at this party.

Gongs, strange stringed instruments, dull sounding drums fill the set with sound as the dancers weave around their leader, the petite Devi Dja.

"Wait, please!" interrupts Herbert Stothart, the composer. He is doing the musical score for this sequence.

"What's the matter?" asks Director Albert Lewin, who has been intently watching Miss Dja's weaving. "Did she zig when she should have zagged?"

"No," replied Stothart, "but the fellow playing the gambang binged when he should have bonged."

Boston After Dark

DICK KOLLMAR, PRODUCER OF "DREAM WITH MUSIC," assumes one of the chief singing roles in his lavish musical tonight . . . At the same performance, an entirely rewritten libretto will be played for the first time . . . The improved book accents comedy, and represents a yeoman's job of work by the original authors . . . The Kollmar stunt of going into his own show, in an important role, certainly speaks well of the young producer's courage . . . Piloting a sumptuous musical comedy through its preliminary career, and guiding it to Broadway is a tough enough task for one man.

JUNE KNIGHT, WHO WAS BILLED after Zorina and Ronald Graham in "Dream With Music," leaves the show tonight . . . In the rewriting, the authors found that the role written for Miss Knight kept dwindling in importance . . . It is not an infrequent occurence in the theater, and is comparable to the development of a motion picture in which original roles, which seemed important at first, gradually diminish in value with relation to the whole story . . . When this happens in the movies, the deleted actors become faces on "the cutting room floor" (as the expression has it.) Miss Knight leaves "Dream With Music" on a note of real regret by the producer and the cast . . . The most versatile all-round female dancer in musical comedy, Miss Knight was spotted wrong from the first—in a part which called for more singing than dancing . . . But the incident nevertheless represents a tough break for the beautiful, svelte blonde with the gracious manner and great charm.

A GOING-AWAY PARTY WAS GIVEN Arki-Yavensonne, creator of the Satire Room, by the new boss of the Fensgate, Bernard Snyder . . . Performers who have worked for Arki came to Boston from New York just to attend . . . Also among the prominent persons present were Michael Todd, the boy-bombshell of the theater . . . It was obvious that the entertainers joined with the Fensgate's staff in lamenting Monsieur Yavensonne's departure . . . There could be no mistaking their opinion that Arki was a wonderful boss. The aforesaid Michael Todd, however, and with no intention of stealing Arki's going-away show from the honored guest, recounted quite modestly (and in all seriousness) an anecdote from his experience which qualifies him as the most considerate boss of all time . . . It seems that Mike had a chauffeur, an aging veteran of the wheel who loved to play the horses . . . When Mike found that he was passing as much time in California as in New York, he decided to find a new job for his driver . . . A job was found quickly enough, and his grateful retainer was placed with another Broadway character with plenty of money and a very important job at the racetracks of New York.

MIKE WAS PLEASED BECAUSE he knew now that his chauffeur could be at the races every day . . . He was surprised on meeting his ex-driver to learn that the fellow was not happy . . . "Yah, it's good enough job, boss," the chauffeur admitted. "But it has one drawback. My new boss leaves the track every day before the last race. His work is finished and he wants to get away before the traffic is heavy. It leaves me in a hell of a hole . . . Lots of days I'd have had the winner in the last race —days when I was hooked, too . . . But the way things are I don't get a chance to bet the last race," Mr. Todd sighed . . . "I thought I was doing the guy a real favor," said he. "Now I've got to find him a job where his boss stays for the whole card."

Bong's Last Combat

By MAJ. RICHARD IRA BONG
(As Told to Lee Van Atta)

Distributed by International News Service. Copyright, 1944, by King Features Syd., Inc.

WASHINGTON, May 12 (INS)—My last combat in the air was on April 12 at Hollandia. I say my last because Gen. Kenney, air chief in this theater, put me on "the shelf" that day—the day I both tied and betered Eddie Rickenbacker's World War 1 record of 26 enemy aircraft shot down.

Now I have come home again—this time to learn gunnery school teaching techniques. I can't say I'm very happy about it—although I'm looking forward to seeing my family again.

But as for coming home—well, I'd rather be staying on in the southwest Pacific with the same kind of status I've had these last few months.

The hardest I ever sweated was the night and morning following my last combat mission over Hollandia. You see, I had my cameras set wrong so there was no really accurate photographic report of the victories I claimed that day.

The Fighter pilots were strung from one end of New Guinea to the other that night and it wasn't until the next morning that the Fighter Command could get them together and take a reading on what had happened.

Fortunately for me, not one but several pilots witnessed my first two "kills"—so that put me over the top. I didn't have any real ideas of trying to crack Rickenbacker's record until after the "Flying Circus" Tom Lynch (Lieut.-Col. Tom Lynch of Catasauqua, Pa.) and I started really got rolling.

I got separated from the rest of the unit after the first couple of minutes of combat. I had spotted one lone Nip roaming around and doing his best to keep away from us. I went over and had it out with him.

I had tacked on to a flock of long range P-38's which were being led by Major Ray Rodkins of Coldridge, Tex. We were escorting "heavies" to Hollandia. We could not see the Japs anywhere when we first hit the target area that day.

Then, over the radio, I heard there were about 20 Zeros hugging close as they could to the jungles around Hollandia. We went tearing down en masse.

When we closed in on them they made a pretense of resistance, but it wasn't much. The last one I snared that day—the one I'm counting on to bring my score to 28—was probably the cagiest of all I ever tangled with.

I really got in one long burst, though, and it must have raised Cain with his right wing. He went down right after that burst.

THE END.

'Hargrove' Merry Army Film for Loew's Patrons

By PEGGY DOYLE

Keenan Wynn and the treatment Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has given its screen version of the 1941 best-selling kid-into-soldier closeup have broadened the comedy and romantic angles in "See Here, Private Hargrove," now tenanting Loew's twin theaters.

Ed's bright boy, Keenan, steals the picture when he doesn't tie with Robert Walker's Hargrove for acting honors as the calculating pal, whose fingers itch to get hold of the irresponsible youngster's checks earned at his camp-life newspapering stint.

It is accepted Hollywood practice to toss out the book and start from scratch. Metro hasn't gone that far, settling for inventing new and more broadly comic episodes for young Hargrove to write about for his newspaper and always retaining the warm, human appeal that first endeared the famous young private to a vast reading public.

The picture is at its funniest when Wynn's Mulvehill is pressed to shrewdly gyp gullible Hargrove, selling him an evening with a girl, Donna Reed, who never heard of either of them.

Mulvehill's way with Hargrove's money is fabulous, especially that time he forms a corporation to finance the latter's New York furlough, in exchange for a fat share in the proceeds from the lad's potential literary future. As co-conniver, George Offerman, Jr., does nice work and Chill Wills's long-suffering sergeant is another praiseworthy performance.

The Richard Dix co-starrer, "The Whistler," may take the permanent out of your hair if you scare easy.

Cugat Rhythm, Bernards' Comedy Hits at Boston

By JOYCE DANA

Xavier, the suave, and his Manhattan Latins share honors on the new K-Boston bill with George and Gene Bernard, billed as "New Comedy Sensations," and living up to every syllable.

Mr. Cugat and his entourage are as smooth as ever, and their arrangement and delivery of the much abused "Besame Mucho" is a standout. Don Rodney and Nita Rosa are the featured vocalists there's a subdued Jessye-like choir and some blaring brasses to take a chorus or two.

But it's really the Bernard boys who make the show all their own. Maybe you've seen these two lanky lads who use recordings for the background to their cutting-up in cute little gingham gowns, and without uttering a sound of their own, they go through the motions—making with the lips—of the Andrews Sisters in the "Pennsylvania Polka," or Bing Crosby and Mary Martin, while the juke box grinds on.

Their Frank Sinatra, in an cut-size bow tie, being propped up to give out with the Sunday-Monday business, while in questionable taste, is, let's face it, funny. They panicked the opening audience.

Kurt Rollini's feats of equipoise on a rolling barrel and accompanied by a mild strip tease, are slightly terrific.

The Garcias, Cuba's youngest professional dancers, are pretty and proficient, and Del Campo singing the rhythmic "Balabu," and the drum spec'alities are other features of the Cugat show. It's pretty loud, but good.

Court of General Uproar; Docket of Complaints

By AUSTEN LAKE

CALLING ALL EARS. Hear ye! The court of general uproar is convened. First case before the people's tribunal is the following letter: "Sir—With consternation I read your recent espousal of a State lottery. Isn't it reflection enough on our declining morals that the State has gone to the dogs and horses without further concession to the gambling vice. The voters should repeal the present betting laws, rather than expand them . . . etc.—MRS. JTB, Brookline."

Defense—Aw shux, Mrs. JTB! This column didn't espouse. It merely reported! Anyhow, don't you think the anti-gambling groups could keep themselves fairly warm just overseeing laws which we have passed instead of mothering new ones. Now I'm thinking of the town's generous sprinkling of handbook operators, who have no great property investment and no legal responsibility toward their clients.

At least the horse and dog proprietors risk considerable cash investments in real estate, taxes, wages and overhead. But the handbook bootleggers only need an office hideaway, a battery of telephones, a few legmen and a proper understanding with the right people. So periodically we have raids and somebody gets hawled to the pokey. But just as periodically the same or other characters set up shop and carry on.

I have heard it estimated by authorities that the drain on our gambling population from these cave-of-the-winds personages exceeds the total cash soaked up at all the tracks. The horses and dog plants are open only part of the year, but the bookmakers operate all the time. So by disregard of these facts, the State denies itself a fat slice in taxes. Personally I prefer a rousing crap game with a secondary leaning toward blackjack, provided I am convinced of the honest character of the little dice cubes and the card deck. If the people, including some of our finest citizens, insist on feeding the gambling kitty, isn't it better that the State supervise the deal. Or is it?

College Sport Hypocrisy

SECOND CASE on today's docket is Judge W. G. Branham's yell of outrage over major league practice of signing college players while school is in progress. Baseball's minor league boss says, "The exigency of the present player situation doesn't justify the system."

DEFENSE — If professional teams wish to play angel to a lot of clean, likely college kids (Ed. Note—And who among them doesn't?) whose concern is it whether the money comes from the club treasury or from the parental sock. The boy gets a free education and the prospect of a job. His parents have the load lifted from their necks. The college gets its money on the dot. The public gets a dollar's worth of fun. Everybody benefits.

There's a fine old hyprocrisy here. For the colleges one obligation is to prepare youth for later usefulness according to each individual's talent. Thus for many years large industrial concerns like duPont de Nemours, General Electric, Ford, General Motors, etc., support gifted kids through their college life with the prospect that this genius will join their organizations after graduation. Also Rockefeller and Guggenheim Foundations furnish funds to impecunious lads for studies which range from research in Chlorophyll (the mystery of nature's growing greens) to Egyptology. That's O. K. in collegiate eyes. But let any boy possess an abnormal knack for busting a ball or whipping it across the diamond and let some major league sponsor allot him a sum to develop his skill. And that's an outrage against the sanctified amateur code. If I had my druthers I'd wash out the thin, wavering line between honest professionalism and the fakeries of amateurism and let both intermingle as a common fellowship.

Draft Inconsistencies

ADD THIS to the complaint department: The male parent of two Boston selectee sons now in overseas service brought this corner a hand curled list of athletes recently rejected for military service for varying defects. Sedee, "One of my boys has astigmatism and has to wear glasses. The other has flat feet, a chronic sinus. Both were inducted. Mind you I'm not kicking about that. But parents like myself want to know why a lot of professional athletes, who are continuing to play high pressure, physical-endurance jobs, have been turned down for preforated eardrums, lame backs, and trick knees and such like."

ANSWER—Not that this commentator wishes to rush any defective into armed service. Yet this pillar has received many a written and verbal query on the above. It's difficult to make a mother, whose son has been drafted, understand why certain pro and college athletes, still currently active, are tossed back into the civilian pool. Some draft boards are tough, some lenient. As with the case of John D. Rigney, the old White Sox pitcher who was tagged for service despite a leaky eardrum, while Leo Durocher, manager of the Dodgers who had played top ball for 20 years without debility, was turned down for the same thing. The examining doctor told Leo, "A gas mask wouldn't be any protection for such an ear." Yet Durocher isn't apt to get gas in a quartermaster depot in Peoria, Ill. Nor is the arthritic ankle of Lou Boudreau, the current shortstop-manager of Cleveland, apt to get crippled in some supply dump at Ft. Harrison. Still, to its credit, the overall volume of pro athletes in the service has been large and willing.

Javery Seen Best Hurler in League

By JOE CASHMAN

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 12—If this isn't the daffiest baseball season ever, it surely isn't far from it when the greatest pitcher in the National League, if not in the majors, hasn't a victory after five starts.

We refer, as you've probably guessed, to Al Javery. His phenomenal pitching is the talk of the senior circuit. Sorry his misfortune.

It's a miracle when anybody gets a base hit off the guy. Yet his record reads 0-3. If he had the success he deserved the Braves would be battling for the top today.

He's allowed only nine runs in 43 innings. One of those markers registered on an error, another was the result of a stupid infield play, two others after one of his outfielders grabbed and then dropped a fly ball.

His most recent effort, against the Pirates here Wednesday night is still Pittsburgh topic.

Though he fanned 12 and gave only one clean hit in seven stanzas he was trailing 1-0 at the time. Consequently, he was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth. With Javery out of there, the Tribe came to life offensively, scored twice and went ahead. Al had a chance to win one, but "Red" Barrett tossed it away on him when tagged for three tallies in the last of the eighth.

Then "Bear Tracks" yesterday saw the same mates who can't get him a run, smash out 18 hits and enable Jim Tobin, giving up 10 hits, to breeze 7-2.

Javery long since should have thrown in the sponge. On the contrary, he seems to be getting better and better.

Not since Dizzy Dean was in his prime has the National League seen such pitching as the pride of North Oxford unfurled under the Forbes Field lights, according to Manager Frankie Frisch of the Pirates, who used to be Diz' boss.

"No pitcher could have more than Javery showed us in that game," chirped Frankie.

"I've followed him since the day he broke in. I was broadcasting in Boston when I first saw him. He had nothing but a fast ball. Then he came up with a change of pace. That was his best pitch in the All-Star game last year. He still lacked a curve.

"But he has a hook now, brother. Most of the men he fanned Wednesday night went down on a "2 no" that exploded. He always could strike you out with his fast one. Then he got so he could whiff you with his slow one. Now he has a dazzling curve, and he has the guts to throw it with the count 3-2 on a batter.

"That combination should never be beaten. If you beat it, you're covered with horseshoes. Javery could lose 20 the way he's going now and he'd still be a superpitcher in my books." Al may not know it, but if it's any consolation to him, Bob Quinn and Bob Coleman feel the same way as Frisch does about him.

"He's won five games as far as I'm concerned," says Quinn.

"He's the best pitcher in the business for my money," says Coleman. "I never in my long career felt so badly about taking a pitcher out as I did when I lifted him for a pinch hitter against the Pirates.

Sox at Wits End Trying To Get Pat Seerey Out

By BILL GRIMES

Two years ago, when the outstanding players of the Northern and the Southern city clubs were selected for the annual All Star game of the Three Eye League, James Patrick Seerey, who is currently starring with the Cleveland Indians was also ran, despite the fact that he established a record by connecting with 33 home runs.

And the irony of Pat Seerey's brush off by the sports editors and club managers, who selected those clubs, was that Otto Huber, Casey Stengel's boy, who fell after rounding third base with the winning run in the 13th inning of that famous marathon Braves-Dodgers game of a few years back, was one of the selectees.

PAT ENJOYING VISIT

We haven't any idea where Otto "Rubber-Legs" Huber is carrying on at present but we'll vouch that where ever he may be, Manager Joe Cronin wishes from the bottom of his heart that Pat Seerey was with him.

James Patrick Seerey is enjoying his first visit to Fenway Park. Along with hitting for a cool .777 for the past two days, J. Patrick has connected with two home runs, the first of which gave the Indians a victory in the opening game and the second, which came with a mate aboard, tied the count yesterday and paved the way for the House of Boudreau to go on and beat the Red Sox 7 to 6.

Tex Hughson and Vern Kennedy will be the starting pitchers this afternoon. Hughson beat the Athletics 3 to 2 on his first start of the season but he was knocked off by the Yankees in New York. Since his setback in the Yankee Stadium, "Tex" has done plenty of running and now that his legs are in condition, he is confident that he will break the Red Sox losing streak which was extended to four games yesterday.

Lawley's Set For Trailways

Leading the league by a one point margin Lawley's Shipyard plans to go all out to beat the Trailways tonight and jump into a full game lead when the Park League ends its first week of action.

The first move toward the top was to get the popular Park veteran, Hal Crosby, to manage the team and he, as he had done with his own clubs in past years, has whipped the club into a classy unit.

In the other games tonight, the first night all teams play, the Casey Club meets the West Roxbury A. A., Navy Yard plays host to Hicks at Lee Park, and Lineham tackles the Watertown Arsenal at Healy Field.

Zanelli Is Sentimental Favorite With Ring Fans

By JACK CONWAY

RALPH ZANELLI of Providence will be the sentimental favorite with boxing fans for the first time during his career when he clashes with Hammering Henry Armstrong at the Garden on next Tuesday night for the duration welterweight championship of the world. It will be because he has agreed to go through with his tussle with Armstrong despite the fact his mother died this week.

When Zanelli's mother died, an effort was made to set the match back until a week from tonight, but this was impossible as Armstrong had dates in California. Armstrong finally agreed to box on Monday night.

Ralph Zanelli

"I would like to meet Armstrong," said Zanelli at his home in Providence, "but I would like to have at least three days in which to train following my mother's funeral. Then I would like another day in which to rest. That would mean I would be ready by Tuesday night. I could then be at the required weight of 145 pounds, and I think I could win."

There were new conferences with George Moore, manager of Armstrong, and Tuesday night was set as the time of the bout.

"I didn't ask Zanelli to go through with the Armstrong bout," said Johnny Buckley. "Neither did Phil Buccola. We permitted Ralph to make his own decision, and he asked for the chance to fight.

"Zanelli took his mother's death very badly. For months he had done everything possible to safeguard her condition which he knew was serious. Now that Mrs. Zanelli has passed on, her son says he must carry on in life for the sake of the family. I think he will probably put up the best battle of his career Tuesday night. He has the heart to win."

Zanelli was back in a Providence gym today. He is in good condition and with three days to train he should be at his best when he faces Armstrong.

★ ★ ★

Will Seek Kayo

ZANELLI WILL strive for a knockout, according to Johnny Buckley.

"In his training, Zanelli has been keeping out of corners," said Buckley. "In his last tussle with Armstrong, Zanelli permitted himself to get trapped in corners. He was a target for Armstrong's blows as a result of the failure to get out of corners.

"Zanelli is stronger and a better puncher than Hammering Henry. If Zanelli keeps forcing the issue, he has a chance to knock the former world's triple champion out.

"Zanelli has the power and speed to keep forcing Armstrong every second they are in the ring. That is the way to lick these old fighters. If you permit them to set their own pace, they are likely to win on points. By forcing the issue, the oldtimer tires and loses much of his ring effectiveness. He also cannot be expected to take a punch as well as he did in his younger days."

Armstrong Trains Here

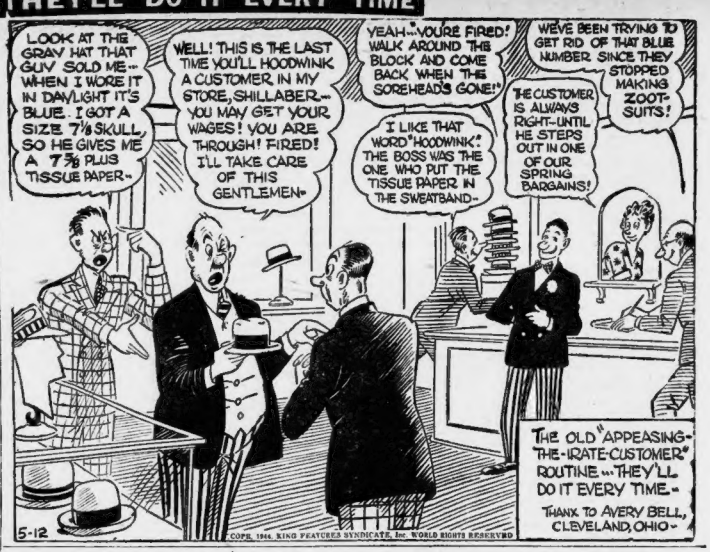
ARMSTRONG continues to train at Harry Kelley's Gym on Hanover street. He is already in fine condition, and will not have to do a great deal of work to keep on edge for his tussle with Zanelli.

"I have granted Zanelli the three days he asked for training purposes," said Armstrong. "I am glad Zanelli says he will be at his best when he meets me. I would not wish it any other way. I have already beaten Zanelli twice and I feel I can do so again."

Bowling Treasurer Collapsed at Banquet

ALLENTOWN, Pa., May 11 (AP)—Charles Cushing of Peoria, Ill., treasurer of the American Bowling Congress for 30 years, collapsed while addressing a bowling banquet tonight and was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital, where his condition was reported critical.

THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME



LOOK AT THE GRAY HAT THAT GUY SOLD ME-- WHEN I WORE IT IN DAYLIGHT IT'S BLUE. I GOT A SIZE 7⅛ SKULL, SO HE GIVES ME A 7⅜ PLUS TISSUE PAPER-
WELL! THIS IS THE LAST TIME YOU'LL HOODWINK A CUSTOMER IN MY STORE, SHILLABER.-- YOU MAY GET YOUR WAGES! YOU ARE THROUGH! FIRED! I'LL TAKE CARE OF THIS GENTLEMEN-
YEAH--YOU'RE FIRED! WALK AROUND THE BLOCK AND COME BACK WHEN THE SOREHEAD'S GONE!
I LIKE THAT WORD "HOODWINK." THE BOSS WAS THE ONE WHO PUT THE TISSUE PAPER IN THE SWEATBAND-
WE'VE BEEN TRYING TO GET RID OF THAT BLUE NUMBER SINCE THEY STOPPED MAKING ZOOT-SUITS!
THE CUSTOMER IS ALWAYS RIGHT--UNTIL HE STEPS OUT IN ONE OF OUR SPRING BARGAINS!
THE OLD "APPEASING-THE-IRATE-CUSTOMER" ROUTINE.--THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME-

7 Speedsters Enter $50,000 Classic

BALTIMORE, May 12 (AP)—The seven three-year-olds listed for the past several days as likely starters in the 54th running of the Preakness Stakes were officially entered this morning in tomorrow's $50,000-added second leg of the triple crown.

The two probable public choices, Warren Wright's Pensive and George D. Widener's Platter, were on the track for final workouts, each breezing a half-mile.

Pensive, the Kentucky Derby winner, was the first colt whose name was dropped in the entry box today. He was followed in order by Mrs. A. J. Abel's Gramp Image, Platter, A. C. Ernst's Alorter, R. Bruce Livie's Gay Bit and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Stir Up. Mrs. Ethel Jacob's Stymie was entered yesterday.

STYMIE LACKS RIDER

All seven had been entered an hour before the official closing time.

Stymie was the only one for whom no rider was listed. He was ridden by Nick Jemas in his last effort, the Chesapeake Stakes, and Jemas still was expected to have the mount. The gelding was due to arrive from New York late today.

There were two jockey changes on the horses which ran in the Derby. Georgie Woolf was assigned the mount on Alorter, replacing Johnny Adams, and Leonard Bowers, 17-year-old apprentice who is currently leading the riders at Pimlico, was to be aboard Gramps Image, replacing Otto Grohs.

LONGDEN ON PLATTER

Johnny Longden, who won the Preakness last year on Count Fleet, will ride Platter. Con McCreary again will be on Pensive, Eddie Arcaro on Stir Up and Jack Westrope on Gay Bit.

In the draw for post positions, the three likely choices drew the three places nearest the rail.

Stir Up was assigned the first post position, Pensive the second and Platter the third. Following the inm order were Alorter, Stymie, Gay Bit and Gramps Image on the outside.

Sgt. Styrna Competes In Alabama Meet

AUBURN, Ala., May 12 (AP)—The Southeastern A. A. U. track and field meet—with an Army accented entry list—will be staged at Auburn Stadium here tomorrow.

Sergt. Ed Etyrna of Maxwell Field, who won two firsts in weight events in the I. C. A. A. A. A. at Harvard in 1942, will be one of the outstanding men on the field. He formerly wore the colors of the University of New Hampshire.

Lowell, Saugus Grid Game Tonight

By MIKE GILLOOLY

A guy with a new job and another who just got a raise this past week will be out to prove their respective rights to these considerations tonight at Manning Bowl, Lynn, where Coach Charlie McCormick will be sending his first Lowell High School football squad against Coach Dave Lucey's Saugus eleven in the floodlight game to end all floodlight games this spring.

As grid contests go, this should be a nifty battle between two big, promising teams—a contest that should even surpass the recent Peabody-LaSalle clash.

Coach McCormick will be making his local debut with his Lowell team, having taken over at the end of last season when Spencer Sullivan had his tiff with school authorities and jumped across the street to Keith Academy. He's had about 35 boys working out for the past month in hopes of returning the Merrimac Valley team to its former high ranking among the state championship contenders.

"We won't be at full strength for this game for you must realize that there is a lot of football talent on the baseball and track squads which doesn't report for spring football," said Coach Mc Cormick. "The team isn't too seasoned but we won't be too badly off."

A quick glimpse of the Lowell line proves Coach McCormick's point about his team not being "too badly off." Bob Eyers, the center, goes a mere 200; Walt Kubucki and Aristomes Malliaros chip in 195 and 210 pounds, respectively, at tackles; Lou Tavoularis, an end, pushed the needle to 180; guards W. Christman and Al Murphy beat out a 215-pounder for starting guard berths; Al Ayer, the other end, is handy enough to take care of the punting.

PLENTY OF MATERIAL

Four of five rated first stringers in the backfield will be passers. Capt. Ed Gibadli will be at left half, Mike DeMauro will be at right, John Dalquist at quarter and either John Malliaros or Earl LeBourdain at full. All but Malliaros, brother of Aristomes, are ariel artists.

Coach Lucey, financially rewarded for his good season last fall, has little to weep about in the line material at the home of the Sachems. He'll have eight lettermen for the backbone of a club that's going to be very, very troublesome next fall as well as a transfer veteran from Lynn Classical. Lucey and his assistant, Leo Reardon, have really whipped together a team.

Capt. Arthur Spinney, a 182-pound end, paces a line of veterans including Dick Allan, Bob Thurell, and Fred Mills, the transfer, all tackles, and Don Reiniger at center. The backfield will be all experienced players with Bruce Waybright, shifted from guard, at quarter, Al Mason making the same move to a half, Frank Pyszko resuming at the other half and Bob Kane back at full.

Bernie Mulligan, a pitcher from Milton, and Jack Casey, second baseman from Quincy, will lead the Boston College High School team against Milton High in the feature of today's diamond program . . . they're both sophomores and two good reasons why the Eaglets are so highly regarded in scholastic ranks . . . Casey has belted five home runs so far this season

Navy Plane Crashes in Hyannis Street

Navy Lieut. George E. Orenge of Warwick, R. I., escaped with only minor scratches when his Navy plane crashed and burst into flames on a Hyannis street (here). The plane's motor cut out as the pilot was attempting a landing at the Hyannis Auxiliary Airport. Outside of giving the natives a thrill, no harm was done . . . except to the plane.

4 Marines From N. E. In Pacific

Four Marines from New England get together at their base in the South Pacific and talk over old times back in the States. They are (l. to r.) Corp. Joseph Rzasa of Manchester, N. H.; Pfc. C. G. Waldron of Rumney, N. H.; Pfc. George Oliver of Hudson, N. H., and Pfc. Vincent Lacolla of Lawrence, Mass. Many of New England's best fighting men are now in the Pacific theater of war . . . battling with Gen. MacArthur in the hurling back of the Japanese from their last strongholds in New Guinea.
